MANSFIELDER'S YOUNGEST TO HOLD POSITION

Ex-Service-Safety Director Appointed to $6,500 Job By Governor-Elect.

Murray D. Shaffer, Mansfield engineer for nearly 25 years, was named today by Gov.-elect Thomas J. Herbert to be state highway director in the Herbert administration.

Shaffer, who maintains his legal residence in Mansfield but has lived in Columbus for the past few years, will succeed Democrat Perry T. Ford in the $6,500-a-year position on Jan. 13.

Shaffer, only 43 years old, will be the youngest man ever appointed to head the highway department.

A native of Fredericktown, Shaffer moved to Mansfield in 1924 when he became deputy county engineer. He held that post until 1932.

MARTIN DENIES GOP HOUSE DEAL

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Actual votes, rather than a compromise, will settle the house Republican floor leadership fight, Rep. Joseph W. Martin, jr., of Massachusetts indicated today.

Martin, who will become house speaker when the new congress convenes Jan. 3, told newsmen there was no foundation to reports that the leadership battle might be compromised by designating Rep. Clarence J. Brown of Ohio chairman of the house Republican steering committee.

The Massachusetts lawmaker made it clear that the steering committee would be retained as the traditional policy-making group and that he would remain as its chairman, a position he held while minority floor leader.

Reports that Brown would be offered the steering committee chairmanship spread last week as some influential Republicans sought a way to avert a showdown fight between Brown and Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana.

Should the leadership controversy remain unresolved when the Republican members caucus on Jan. 2 to choose their floor chief, the candidate with the most votes in the caucus will receive the post.

Besides Halleck, other announced candidates include Reps. Thomas Jenkins of Ohio and Everett Dirksen of Illinois. Brown has not formally announced his candidacy but has said he is "available" to lead his party's legislative battles in the house.

Custodians Ask Pay Increases Averaging $480

Mansfield school engineers and custodians, through their union representative, asked the board of education last night for a new pay scale providing an average of $480 per year more for each of the approximately 38 members of the maintenance force.

R. J. Jamieson of Cleveland, assistant international representative of the International Union of Operating Engineers, presented the pay request to the board. With him was a small delegation of custodians and Clarence Fike, head of the county AFL.

The board told the men it would study the proposal a few days, obtaining some comparative salary figures from other cities, before acting on the proposal.

* * *

Levy Provides Funds.

Funds to take care of pay increases will be provided by the three-mill levy voted in November for school operations. The board two weeks ago approved increases averaging $500 a year for teachers.

The proposal pay scale sets a minimum of $2,060 for non-licensed assistant custodians starting on the job and would increase them to $2,420 in three years. Comparative scales for other classes of workers are:

Licensed assistant custodians, $2,160 to $2,520; night licensed operators, $2,260 to $2,620; licensed operator and custodian in elementary schools, $2,310 to $2,770; licensed operator and custodian in junior high schools, $2,510 to $2,870; licensed operator and custodian in Senior high school, $2,610 to $2,970.

The men would receive a flat $50 extra fee for extra work and $10 for Saturday, Sunday, and holiday work if it's outside their regular duties.

The present pay scale ranges from $1,940 to $2,490.

CITY SCHOOLS TO GET MILLION

$795,565 Available in County Funds, $362,000 in State Revenue, Board Told.

Mansfield's public schools will be a mililon-dollar business next year.

The schools will have at least $1,069,169 from county tax revenue and state foundation money for operation and bond retirement in 1947, and will get considerably more if a proposal to increase state aid gets legislative approval.

The 1946 appropriation bill provided $853,912 for school operations.

County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe informed the board of education last night that the city schools will get $795,565 in county money next year, an increase of $232,440 over the 1946 allotment.

Most of the increase is accounted for by the special three-mill levy which was voted in November to provide more pay for teachers and other school employes.

The three-mill levy will add $198,000 to the amount available for schools during the 1947 calendar year, Wolfe said.

The county tax allocation will be supplemented by approximately $362,000 in state school foundation money in 1947 unless the present set-up is changed.

The board will use these figures as a basis for its 1947 appropriation bill which will be enacted within the next month.

County funds for schools collected outside the 10-mill tax limitation will total $407,982 next year, Auditor Wolfe said. This figure compares with $198,750 collected outside the 10-mill limit this year.

The county will provide $88,396 for bond retirement next year. This year the figure was $72,875. All of the state foundation money is used for operation purposes.

Mother Pays 2 Young Sons For Stealing

COLUMBUS— (INS) —Columbus police held the mother, father and stepbrother today of two small boys who said they were rewarded for stealing large sums of money.

John Dixon, 12 and his brother, Charles, 8, told police they had stolen $200 from a commercial photo finishing firm and were given a dollar apiece "for bringing the money home to mother."

Police arrested Charles Dixon, Sr., 63, and his wife, Lela, 39, on charges of receiving and concealing stolen property and contributing to the delinquency of minors. A delinquency complaint was filed against William Nixon, 17, on charges of receiving and concealing stolen property.

ESCAPERS FACE LONGER TERMS

Three young Mansfield reformatory inmates, who terrorized north central Ohio during a 48-hour crime wave after their escape from the Grafton honor camp Nov. 20, today faced greatly increased sentences.

Common Pleas Judge Harry Kilburger of Fairfield county sentenced Leland R. Earlenbaugh, 26, of Akron, and Donald W. Burson, 22, of Canton, to terms of 10 to 25 years in Ohio penitentiary for armed robbery, the International News Service reported from Lancaster.

The third youth, Robert J. Miller, 19, of Cleveland, received a similar sentence in OSR. Kilburger then added a one-to-20 year penalty for automobile theft to each sentence.

The trio were found guilty of robbing Joseph Stanko, Lancaster dry cleaner, and forcing him to accompany them in his automobile on a wild trip which ended when they were captured near Millersburg.

A fourth inmate, James Lee Vendor, 16, who escaped with the trio, has been returned to OSR, and a 17-year-old girl, Zollen Smith, of Valley City, who accompanied the four escapees, has been placed in the custory of her parents.

The youths also were linked with abducting and robbing William J. Bell, 704 Park avenue east, and Merle Leedy, of Bellville, but charges have not been pressed.

High School Pupils Turn Santa for City's Needy

Between 40 and 50 Christmas baskets, filled not only with a complete meal for the holiday, but enough staples to last a week, will go out from Senior high school Friday afternoon and Saturday morning to needy families.

Miss Ruth Dunham, Latin instructor at the high school, who annually directs the assembling of the baskets, said donations from outside the school will be gratefully accepted. Anyone wishing to donate food for the baskets may leave the commodities at the high school.

The Christmas basket project, in which all Senior high pupils play a part, is carried on by checking the various welfare and social service agencies to avoid duplication. Each home room at the school assembles its own basket and decorates it.

"We want to let the families know that the schools are interested in something besides school books," Miss Dunham said as she explained the spirit in which the project is carried on.

The basket committee is headed by Barbara Bailey, assisted by Dorla Wagner, Martha Shiplet, Marilyn Miller and Nancy Osbun. Deliveries will be in charge of Bill Werner, assisted by David Barnhill for the seniors; Dave Ganyard for the junior class and Harold Leiendecker for the sophomore class. Edward Knapp will head the donation of gifts from the high school's Social Science Service club.

Patrons Line Up at Post Office as Rush Starts

Mansfielders who jammed the lobby of the post office yesterday morning gave postal workers the first real indication that the long overdue Christmas mailing rush had really begun.

With cancellations reaching 114,800, and with some 30 extra employes on the job, Acting Postmaster Curtis L. Ford saw pre-Christmas "normalcy" approaching.

"Cancellations go as high as 170,000 in a 24-hour period during the normal Christmas rush," Ford pointed out. "Yesterday was the first time that we really felt that there was a rush. It is overdue by a week and we were really puzzled about it.

"We are all set up to handle it and by tonight we'll have 11 vehicles at work, including five post office trucks, two state and two county trucks and the army recruiting station sedan helping Santa deliver the mail."

Post office window schedules for Tuesday through Friday are: stamp and parcel post, 7 a. m. to 7 p. m.; money orders 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m., and registry 8 a. m. to 7 p. m. A special Saturday schedule will be announced later in the week.

THE RUSH IS ON—Although a week late in developing the Christmas mailing rush was on in full force Tuesday as indicated by crowds that jammed the post office lobby as early as 9 a. m. As the morning wore on, the crowd increased in size.—(N-J staff photo)

Realtors Hail New Housing Program, Local Veterans See Plan As 'Setback'

Mansfield realtors today hailed the government's new housing program as the first constructive step taken toward easing the home shortage, while several veterans here termed the plan a "setback to vet housing."

As a storm of controversy raged in Washington over President Truman's control-slashing home-building program, real estate operators here were unanimous in praise of the move, which wiped out housing and building material priorities.

W. C. Mansfield, realtor, said the president's "realistic approach" would "loosen up the whole thing and make more houses."

"The city is bound to get more houses under the new program," he said. "It's a very constructive step, and I think eventually rent controls will be liberalized, too."

* * *

MANSFIELD POINTED OUT that although prices at first would have an "upward trend," the veterans must be "patient," because it eventually will adjust itself and the rental situation will be eased.

A. B. Reese, another real estate operator, said that the dropping of priorities will give builders "more confidence" and the new program "will produce housing for veterans."

"There's lots of people here who are renting houses but who want to build," he said. "This decontrol means that these people will build, which in turn means that more renting units will be available to veterans."

He pointed out, however, that while President Truman's step was "constructive," one of the chief bottlenecks which still slow up new housing is the labor shortage.

F. S. Culp, realtor, described the government action as "generally good," and declared that "it will improve the situation."

* * *

ON THE OTHER SIDE OF the fence, an American Veterans committee member here, called the president's policy change a "setback to the vet housing program."

The veteran, who wished to withhold his name from publication, said, however, that "I have confidence it will speed up housing, but am afraid it also will boost the price beyond the reach of the average veteran."

Another ex-GI said simply:

"It's just like after the last war—they're repeating what we did last time. The higher-ups will be able to get houses, but guys like me can't afford it."

* * *

MEANWHILE, THE ASSOCIated Press reported from Washington that Housing Expediter Frank R. Creedon and National Housing Administrator Raymond M. Foley of the National Housing Agency met in silence contentions by a retiring deputy and by a CIO official that the new program would curtail the number of new homes for veterans.

Norton E. Long, a former deputy administrator under Wilson W. Wyatt, who acted as both expediter and NHA boss, handed reporters a statement in which he challenged the administration "to show how the new program's so-called incentives to encourage rental housing are anything but a fraud perpetrated on veterans for political expediency."

TRUMAN ORDER UNIFIES FORCES

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Unification of the armed forces was pushed ahead today by orders from President Truman merging all land, sea and air forces in area commands under one general or admiral.

The war and navy departments said in a joint announcement that "each such commander will be responsible for the unified planning for defense and in case of emergency the conduct of operations."

The new set-up, recommended by the joint chiefs of staff, trims Gen. MacArthur's command from control over all army forces in the Pacific to authority only over those in Japan, Korea, the Philippines, the Marianas, Bonins and Ryukyus.

His territorial sphere—the Far East command — eventually will lose the Marianas which will revert to the Pacific command placed in charge of Admiral John H. Towers. Other commanders are:

European, Gen. Joseph T. McNarney: Atlantic fleet, Admiral Marc A. Mitscher; Alaskan, Maj. Gen. H. A. Craig of army air forces: strategic air command in the United States, Gen. George C. Kenney.

The commander has not been named yet for the northeast command established under the arrangement. Lt. Gen. Willis D. Crittenberger for the present will have charge of the Caribbean command.

SEEING-EYE CAT—Mrs. Carolyn Swanson, who lost her sight a year ago, walks from her home guided by a big-white Persian seeing-eye cat, Baby. The animal guides her on daily errands in Los Angeles, signaling danger at intersections by switching his tail against her legs.

SEVERE COLD HEADS FOR CITY

The second severe cold wave of the winter hit Mansfield today and weather forecasters warn that it will stay until the end of the week. Only slight relief was in sight for Thursday.

While a mass of cold air from the northern Yukon territory plunged temperatures 20 to 30 degrees lower throughout Ohio Mansfield's reading today dropped 24 degrees below yesterday's high and is expected to go down to 10 above by tomorrow morning.

Shortly before noon today thermometers at the Longview station of the Ohio Public Service station showed 26 degrees, several degrees lower than during the early hours of the morning which are usually coldest of the day.

The forecast also said that strong winds with snow qualls were likely in northern Ohio and might reach as far south as Mansfield tonight. Tomorrow will be partly cloudy and "cold."

Rain and rising temperatures yesterday quickly brought the Mansfield area out of the worst traffic conditions so far this winter. Freezing rain for a short period glazed streets and highways.

BILBO READY TO TELL HIS SIDE OF CASE

Committee Likely to Call For Senator's Story.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senator Theodore G. Bilbo (D-Miss) appeared likely to get a chance today to relate his side of the story of his relations with a dozen war contractors who:

1. Loaned him money;
2. Bought him a car;
3. Dug him a lake and,
4. Chipped in more than $30,000 for his futile campaign to elect Wall Doxey to the United States senate in 1942.

Chairman Mead (D-NY) of a senate war investigating subcommittee said Bilbo probably would be called today. Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) likewise told a reporter "it looks like 'the man' will get his chance to talk."

Hears Proceedings.

Bilbo sometimes refers to himself in campaign speeches in the third person, as 'the man Bilbo.' He has been an attentive listener to all the proceedings since the public hearings started last Thursday.

The committee would have preferred to wait for Bilbo's rebuttal until after examining Edward P. Terry, Bilbo's secretary from 1939 until last January.

But Terry, who claimed his life had been threatened if he said anything against his former boss, has been in a Quitman, Miss., hospital with a heart ailment and was not due here until tomorrow morning.

Bilbo told reporters he planned to present a written statement explaining his side of the affair. He recently underwent a mouth operation and cannot yet wear his denture comfortably.

Yesterday's session brought details of how contractors—all of whom held lucrative government construction contracts in Mississippi—painted the senator's "dream house" home at Poplarville, contributed to the nearby Juniper Grove Baptist church at his request, dug him a swimming pool and performed other favors.

County's Adopted Children Yule Party Guests Tonight

Something new in the way of a Christmas party will be undertaken tonight. The Richland county probate court will entertain all parents who have taken children for adoption from the court between 1942 and 1946. They have been asked to bring their adopted children.

The party wil be held in the basement of the First Methodist church, from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m.

It will be the first such attempt by the county court, according to Mrs. Marjorie Comer, juvenile officer in charge of adoption.

During this four-year period, 71 children have been taken for adoption from the county court and, if all these children and their foster parents come to the party, more than 200 persons will be present.

Stuart H. Cramer, probate judge, will speak. Movies, explaining the work of this particular branch of the court, will be shown. Informal get-acquainted features have also been arranged, Mrs. Comer said. Coffee and cookies will be served.

WATER PUMP COSTS HIGH, SAYS ENLOW

Council Moves to Act After OPS Signifies Willingness to Renegotiate Contract.

A reduction in the price Mansfield pays for electric power, other than that used for street lighting, was being sought today by city officials.

The city annually pays the Ohio Public Service company about $50,000 for power, used mainly to pump water.

Service-Safety Director William W. Enlow said that "an attempt will be made to negotiate a better rate" for that power.

The director said negotiations are being planned now because a letter from OPS suggested that the city consider terminating its present contract before March 1947, and negotiate a new one as son as possible.

He said thatit has not yet been determined how much of a cut in the bill will be sought or whether a straight or percentage reduction will be asked.

* * *

Pumping Bill Up.

He said, however, that because city water pumps are going at full throttle, this year's bill will be higher than last.

City Auditor Paul L. Kelley said that in 1945 the city paid $48,213 for water works power. He estimated the bill this year would be abut $53,500.

The power legislation before council tonight authorizes Enlow to advertise and contract for electric power "exclusive of street lighting."

The proposed legislation also authorizes Enlow to rescind the current contract before March "in the event such action should prove advantageous to the city."

* * *

Sets Up Negotiations.

The measure also declares that "it is desirable to negotiate with the Ohio Public Service company for a contract for 10 years or a shorter period or longer period. The present contract is for 10 years.

Technically the city can contract with any company for power. The OPS, however, is supplying the city now and legislation before council tonight specifies "negotiations with Ohio Public Service."

Reductions of the city's street lighting and domestic bills were negotiated with OPS in May and June. They save the city $35,000 a year and home users a like amount.

MAJOR PARTIES SUPPORT BLUM

PARIS —(INS)— France's major parties promised today to support the all-Socialist cabinet of Premier Leon Blum, asuring its ratification by the national assembly.

As the assembly prepared for this afternoon's meeting organs of the Communist and popular Republican movement—largest parties in the chamber—assailed each other's "obstinacy" as responsible for the paradox which thrust the government into the hands of the Socialists.

Blum's groupis a weak third in the assembly. He resorted to the exclusively Socialist cabinet when unrelenting antagonisms of the Communists, MRP and other major groups prevented creation of a coalition.

Nevertheless, the two larger parties seemed relieved that the Socialists have accepted the onus for the unpopular measures necessary to restore financial and economic stability.

STORES TO REMAIN OPEN 'TIL 9 P. M.

Virtually all Mansfield retail stores will remain open until 9 p. m. Friday, Saturday and Monday, V. H. Lodde, secretary-manager of the Retail Merchants' association, announced today.

Lodde said a check showed practically all stores in the city planned to extend their hours on these three days for the convenience of Christmas shoppers.

The stores will close at 5 p. m. on Christmas eve, he said.

Boom In Foreign Trade Worries U.S. Economists

EXPERTS FEAR REPETITION OF CYCLE IN '20S

Nation's Trade Balance Can Become Too Favorable.

By CLARKE BEACH

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The big boom in foreign trade has come. And government economists who can still hear the sickening echo of the crash that followed the boom in the 1920s are ready to hold their ears.

It's starting the same way with sales and purchases at unprecedented peacetime peaks and with a gigantic "favorable balance of trade," an excess of dollars received over the dollars spent.

None of the experts interviewed expects an economic catastrophe within the next few years.

They believe the present program of loans and trade will keep things humming for some time. Meanwhile, sweeping reforms in foreign trade methods have been proposed. The experts hope that in the long run these will save the situation.

But they find the obstacles and dangers rather appalling.

* * *

HERE IS THE PRESENT DIlemma, according to commerce department statisticians:

The United States is buying foreign goods at the rate of $4½ billion a year; selling to foreigners at the rate of $9½ to $10 billion. This year we stand to clear more than $5 billion.

Some of this represents lend-lease and UNRRA outlays but foreigners' cash purchases in the second quarter of 1946 represented 77.3 per cent of the total, and the proportion was increasing rapidly.

The previous peacetime foreign trade record was set in 1920, with exports at $8,228,000,000 and imports at $5,278,000,000. In the period 1936-1938 the U. S. annually exported goods valued at $2,-967,000,000 and imported $2,489,-000,000 worth.

If our foreign customers want to continue to do business with us they must even the balance by using their dollar reserves and by borrowing.

It will be mostly borrowing, since $5,000,000,000 is as much as it will be practicable for them to use of their dollar reserves, according to E. E. Schnellbacher, director of the commerce department's special services branch.

* * *

BUT THEY CAN'T GO ON borrowing indefinitely. That's what happened in the '20s. They borrowed not only to pay for goods but to pay interest and principal on loans. This snowballed until many nations had to default. Then they got no more loans and had to cease trading.

The only answer, according to practically all authorities in the commerce department, is to buy from foreigners goods and services of the same value as those we wish to sell them.

It doesn't have to even up each year, just so a balance is achieved in the course of a cycle. It doesn't have to even up between any two countries, since a country which has a dollar deficit might achieve a balance by sales to a third nation with dollar credits.

The typical administration viewpoint has thus been expressed by Arthur Paul, director of the office of international trade:

"We shall have to open our doors to foreign imports to enable other countries of the world to pay for the things and the services we have sold to them. We are the great creditor nation of the world and as such we have the responsibility of acting intelligently to preserve the soundness of our loans."

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennett Cerf

Five-year-old Michael was poring through an old copy of a book about the Christian martyrs filled with highly colored and lurid illustrations.

When he came to a reproduction of the famous picture of the Christians being thrown to the lion's in Nero's huge amphitheater, he burst into tears.

"My little Michael is so sensitive," boasted his mother to a visitor. "He is already conscious of the injustice of this world and the needless sufferings inflicted on fellow humans by barbarians."

Michael continued to sob and pointed to one lion prowling all by himself in the left-hand corner of the picture, "Look at that poor lion over there," he sobbed. "He hasn't got a single Christian."

COMBINE TWO DEFENSES

There are two extreme kinds of defense against the usual No Trump game contract. One is that whereby you concentrate on developing tricks to be taken by your own side. The other is that in which you exert yourself principally to kill off the declarer's taking of tricks. Sometimes neither of those plans will get the desired result, but a timely combination of the two will.

	♠ J 10 9 4 3 2 ♥ 8 6 5 3 ♦ None ♣ K Q 10
♠ A 8 7 ♥ A Q ♦ Q 10 9 7 ♣ 6 3 7 4	N W E S	♠ K ♥ K 10 9 4 2 ♦ J 5 4 ♣ A 9 6 2
	♠ Q 6 5 ♥ J 7 ♦ A K 8 2 ♣ J 8 5 3

(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♦	1 ♠	2 ♥	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 NT

With slight variations, including a diamond rebid by West or a club call by East, the bidding landed three pairs of a duplicate game in that same contract. In every case North opened the spade J to the K, and West saw at once that he must set up something in diamonds to get nine tricks. So the second lead in each case was a diamond, which South took wth the K. Then came differences.

One South player continued work on spades, leading the Q on which West held up, and then the 5 to the A. West then knocked out the diamond A. South now returned a club, but when the A won West had no trouble to run the rest of the tricks to make an extra.

The second South player, when in with the diamond K, viewed the club A as a dangerous reentry to the dummy to bring in hearts, so shot at it with the club 3. The Q was allowed to win, then the K drove out the A. Now West eliminated South's diamond A, whereupon the club J won the defense's fourth trick. But that was all, for the club 9 was set up, also all red cards.

The third South saw the danger of the clubs being blocked if North held what he did. So, after winning with the diamond K, he first scored his spade Q, being sure West would hold up once, and then shifted to the club 3. By thus stealing a spade trick, his side got a total of five, with two each in the minors. It turned out that knocking the club A out of its re-entry function was unimportant, but the combining of the two plans put the blocks to West anyway.

PRO FOOTBALL 'FIX' CASE STILL HANGING FIRE

FAIR OR FOUL

by LAWTON CARVER

International News Service

NEW YORK—(INS)—According to seemingly sound reports around National Professional Football league headquarters Glenn Davis will resign his commission upon graduation from West Point in June and become a professional athlete.

He is supposed to be toying with two offers to enter big league baseball and also has been chosen by Detroit Lions in the annual pro football draft.

The Brooklyn Dodgers are said to have offered "a tremendous sum" for Davis to join that club as a baseball player and the Boston Red Sox are understood to have topped the Dodger offer. Davis hit around .600 in intercollegiate baseball competition.

Baseball people believe he would be a great player eventually.

Meantime, the Detroit Lions selected him first in the draft causing a probable further manipulation of talent. The National league, by the way, is notorious for its manipulations.

In this case, Detroit has snared one half of the most famous ball-carrying tandem in college history, after the other half—Doc Blanchard—had been claimed by the Pittsburgh Steelers.

A trade between Pittsburgh and Detroit to bring both players to one club in the interest of bigger gates is in prospect.

One National leaguer told the writer today that in his opinion Blanchard and Davis playing with different teams would be merely a couple of football players.

He added: "But playing on the same club they would be a circus attraction. The customers would pay just to see them operate."

This National league official also said that both Blanchard and Davis have conferred with National leaguers and are ready to play pro football—"preferably with the same team."

This circuit, which calls itself the major league of football seems to be operating strictly on a scuffle with manipulations so flagrant that you wonder at their gall in crowding it all down the public gullet.

A sample is the Tex Coulter case. He has played with the New York Giants this season, but was drafted last night by the Chicago Cardinals to keep the Philadelphia Eagles from getting him, so that the Cardinals could trade him back to the Giants.

In all seriousness, I believe that the All-America conference's chances of succeeding are better than most people realize. All the latter has to do is make a little sense.

NATIONAL LOOP REGULATIONS TIGHTENING

Chicago Bears Choose Bob Fenimore in Draft.

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK—(AP)—The National football league moguls went into their final December huddles today with the case of New York Giant Fullback Merle Hapes—involving the attempt to fix Sunday's championship game—still open, the player draft finished and proposed rule changes up for debate.

Although no action has been taken yet in the attempted bribery of Hapes—and nothing final will be done pending disposal of the case against the indicted Alvin Paris, self-styled "big bettor"—National League Commissioner Bert Bell made it plain that the axe will fall on anyone who hears of such a situation and doesn't report it immediately.

Sporting a new five-year contract at a $30,000 annual salary, the stocky Philadelphian declared that withholding of "guilty knowledge" of gambling or attempted "fixing" of games is punishable by lifetime banishment.

He pointed out he was not specifically referring to Hapes, who is alleged to have been "propositioned" by Paris last week and not to have reported the attempt to Giant Coach Steve Owen or any other club official.

Bob Fenimore, two-time All-America Oklahoma A. & M. back, was first choice in the lengthy draft sessions. He was selected by the league champion Chicago Bears. Glenn Davis, Army's great "Mr. Outside," was No. 1 pick of the Detroit Lions.

But the magnates paid close attention to news from the local grand jury, which indicted Paris on two counts of bribery after hearing from Hapes and the Giants' passing halfback ace, Frank Filchock, and to reports from municipal court, where Paris' bail was raised from $25,000 to $28,500.

And it was obvious that the moguls, deeply affected by this first cloud in the 27-year National league history, were going all out to tighten up regulations.

Most popular on the draft list were the undefeated Bruins of UCLA. Although only about one-third of the 300 drafted players were announced, it was learned nine members of the UCLAN outfit were selected, headed by Southpaw Passer Cal Rossi, first choice of the Washington Redskins. The owners picked five of the unbeaten, untied Bulldogs of Georgia, the identities of none of whom were revealed.

Detroit Owner Fred Mandel explained he will not contact Davis, the three-time All-American from California, about a contract, inasmuch as Davis will be an army officer after his graduation in June. If he should "get out of the army, say in two or three years, I would have first crack at him," Mandel added.

Fullback Doc Blanchard, who made up with Davis Army's much-feared "Monster and his Playmate" combination, was selected a year ago by the Pittsburgh Steelers. Blanchard had a year at North Carolina before going to West Point.

It's Official, Newhouser's Top Pitcher

CHICAGO —(AP)— Hal Newhouser of the Detroit Tigers was officially recognized today as the top pitcher in the American league for the second straight year.

Newhouser's 26 victories during the 1946 season tied him with rapid Robert Feller of the Cleveland Indians for the most games won, but the big Tiger southpaw was No. 1 in earned runs with 1.94 per game compared with his 1.81 which led the league in 1945, when he won 25 and lost 9.

Toiling in 293 innings during 37 games, Newhouser compiled a record of 26 triumphs against nine defeats, gave up 215 hits for 77 runs against him, allowed 98 bases on balls and struckout 275 batsmen. His strikeout mark was topped only by Feller who whiffed 348 of the 1,331 men to face him.

In winning 26 games while losing 15, Feller's earned run average was 2.18, third best among pitchers who worked ten or more complete games. The New York Yankees' Spud Chandler was second to Newhouser in effectiveness with a 2.10 earned run figure for 34 games, 20 of which he won against only eight losses.

Leading the won-lost column was the Boston Red Sox' Dave (Boo) Ferriss with a 25-6 record for a mark of .806. Ferris was 14th in the earned-run department with 3.25.

The fifth 20-game winner in the league was Boston's Tex Hughson with 20 triumphs against 11 defeats. Hughson's earned run average was 2.75.

Feller's outsaanding record included appearnce in more games, 48, than any other hurler; most innings pitched, 371; most complete games pitched, 36. He allowed the most hits, 277, and also the most walks, 153. His 348 strikeouts broke a league record which had stood since 1904.

Feller also ran his one-hitter lifetime total to eight with a pair during the 1946 campaign—another league record. He twirled a no-hitter against New York, April 30; turned in two three-hitters, four four-hitters and 10 shutouts.

Smokehouse, Mansfield Tire, Yunckers Lead City A League

Smokehouse extended its winning streak to three straight to notch undisputed possession of first place in the City A league's first division while Yunckers Sports and Mansfield Tire tied for first in the second section last night at Senior high.

Smokehouse defeated AVC 32 to 24 after trailing at the quarter, 6 to 5. The Cuemen moved ahead at the half, 19 to 9, and led 24 to 12 as the final period opened. Ed Chatlain, Smokehouse pivotman, led the scorers with 13 points while sub forward, Jack Shiplet, played a fine floor game.

Yunckers dropped Ohio Sports Center to its third consecutive loss, 35-28 and Mansfield Tire and Rubber downed McCarrick's Gulf Station, 33 to 20.

The Yunckers - Sports Center contest was one of the roughest games of the early season with the former team leading at the quarter, 7 to 1. Sports Center surged ahead at the half, 14 to 10 and the score was tied at the third intermission point, 17-17. Bob Bogantz collected five points in the last period to lead Yunckers to victory.

The Tiremen led all the way in eliminating McCarrick's. Bobby Glasscock and Don Adams had 17 of the losers' counters.

Madison Rams Seeking Third Win of Season

Mansfield Madison Rams will be seeking their third straight victory when they invade Lexington tonight. A reserve game at 7:15 opens the program.

Coach Jeff DeHaven's quintet dropped its opener to Mt. Vernon and then recorded victories over Shelby and Loudonville. Lexington has won four of five Richland county contests and dropped a non-league affair to Cardington.

Two scoring powers will meet in tonight's game when Rollin Ford is second in the county scoring race and has 75 markers in the five league games while Pritchard has averaged 13 a game for the Rams.

Galion Tigers Meet Mt. Gilead Cagers

GALION — Galion high school basketball team will be host to Mt. Gilead high school cagers, Tuesday night, at 7 o'clock at Galion Junior high gym.

The Galion players made a good showing when they played Friday night at Ashland, losing the game to the Hilltoppers by a score of 44-39.

Adams Shoved Into Spotlight

CLEVELAND —(INS)— Tackle Chet Adams, for more than three months the Cleveland Browns' "forgotten man," strode pertly into the spotlight today.

With Captain Jim Daniell dismissed from the team because of a ruckus with Cleveland police last Friday and place-kicker Lou Groza out with a sprained ankle, the hulking lineman will step into his own in Sunday's All-America playoff clash with the New York Yankees in Cleveland.

Used primarily on defense most of the season, Adams will be forced to shift from right to left tackle, as well as to handle the kicking duties, because of the gap left by the "firing" of Daniell.

While Groza, the league's leading scorer, is more accurate from greater distances, Adams is expected to be able to handle the extra-point duties capably. However, Guard Bill Willis may be shifted to tackle. Besides Adams, the Browns have only Ernie Blandin and Lou Rymkus for the tackle slots.

Daniell left Cleveland last night for his Pittsburgh home. Big Jim was free to sign with any team in the loop, having been declared a free agent, but he had expressed a desire to quit pro football after the present season.

Daniell is expected to be voted a full share of the playoff cut, and has already drawn the last regular pay check from the Browns.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

CHICAGO—Gene Joyce, 138¾, Gary, Ind., outpointed Al Gomez, 135½, Chicago (8)

BALTIMORE—Charley Millan, 140¾, Baltimore, knocked out Pat Scanlon, 143½, New York, (1).

Phillies Change Mind About Buying Ball Club

PHILADELPHIA — (INS) — The Phillies changed their plans today about buying a triple "A" ball club for their expanding farm system.

Bob Carpenter, Bluejays owner, said the "ridiculous prices" asked by club owners prompted him to give up hopes of adding an International, American Association, or Pacific Coast league club to his chain "at this time."

Family Has Food Now, Too Late to Save Tot

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—(U.P.)—Theodore Everingham went back to his new job at the cranberry canning factory today knowing his little family will have enough to eat for some time to come.

Gifts of food, clothing and money poured into the third-floor "walk-up" apartment from people who read of the plight of the young war veteran whose youngest baby died Friday of starvation.

His 24-year-old partly-paralyzed wife, Ethel, spent the day being outfitted "from tip to toe" by two local dress shops.

* * *

POLICE SERGEANT HARRY McGaffney, who first uncovered the impoverished conditions of the Everinghams, found himself a "Santa Claus by proxy." Anonymous givers anxious to help sent checks to the sergeant for the family.

One of the checks for $25 was included with a note expressing the wish it would be the "nucleus for raising a substantial sum of money to help these folks get started again." They live at 1 South New Hampshire avenue.

Two-months-old Earl Everingham died Friday while his father was in Bridgeton, N. J., looking for a job and his mother was at work at her part-time position as sales girl in a store.

* * *

THE BABY'S DEATH CLImaxed a series of misfortunes which started last June when Everingham got out of the army after four years service. Twice he and his wife were evicted with their 18-month-old baby girl, and then later with little Earl. Another child lives with grandparents in Bridgeton.

Everyingham was unable to get a steady job. He hadn't lived in the city long enough to get relief from a local agency. And he explained he "didn't want to take advantage of being a veteran." His first $20 weekly veterans unemployment allotments were used up and others were delayed because of their constantly changing address.

Everingham finally got a job at the canning factory at Bridgeton and arrived home with $10 for his wife only to find the baby dead.

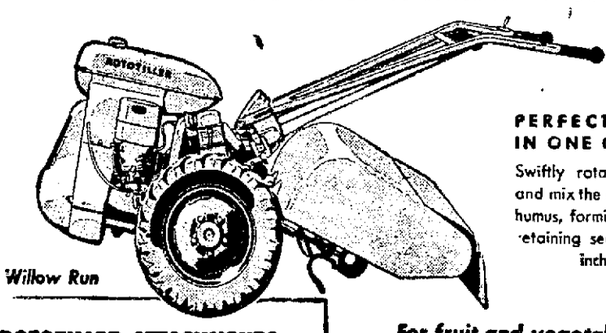
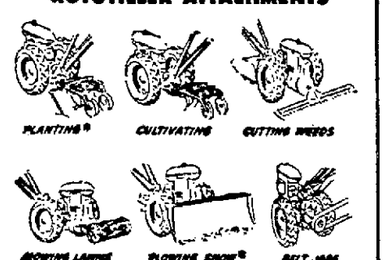
ROTOTILLER
Trade Mark Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.
POWER TILLER OF A HUNDRED USES



Built at Willow Run

PERFECT SEED BEDS IN ONE OPERATION!
Swiftly rotating tines shred and mix the soil, fertilizer and humus, forming rich, moisture-retaining seed beds up to 9 inches deep.

ROTOTILLER ATTACHMENTS



*Available now. Others coming soon.

For fruit and vegetable growers, nurseries, greenhouses, farms, and gardens of all sizes!

ROTOTILLER is Graham-Paige's scientific tillage machine. Instead of turning over the soil in huge furrows which must still be broken down by time-consuming labor, it forms a perfect seed bed in one simple operation. Its swiftly rotating tines produce a finer, richer seed bed than plow, disc and harrow combined, and at a big saving in time and labor. Come in today and ask about an actual demonstration.

FARMER BROWN'S BOY LISTENS

To see and hear with understanding is to keep open at all times the doors to knowledge that enriches the lives of all who possess it. The very lives of many of the Green Forest and Green Meadow folk depend on how they use their eyes and ears. It is because Farmer Brown's boy has learned to use his, and never fails to do so, that he knows and loves and understands his neighbors in fur and feathers so well that he is trusted and loved by them. He understands them and they understand him.

This morning when he looked out and saw the thick icy crust covering the snow everywhere he had known just what it meant to those of Mother Nature's children who were his neighbors. He knew which ones would not suffer because of it, which ones would have to work hard to get enough to eat, and which ones might be in real danger of starving unless that crust melted within a day or two.

The first thing he did was to see that the feeding shelf at a kitchen window was well supplied with food for his feathered friends, and that a couple of other feeding stations near the house were well stocked. When he had a chance later in the day he went over to the Green Forest with a bag of buckwheat, cracked corn and chickfeed. On the way he stopped to break away the crust around a pile of brush. He cleared away the snow for a little space on one side of it and there he left part of his grain. This was for Bob White and his flock for whom that pile of brush had been made. It was their winter home. Beneath it they found shelter from storms and safety from hungry enemies. He suspected their need was great after this last storm and so it was.

The crust was strong enough to bear him even without snowshoes and his overshoes made almost no sound as he walked. Long ago he learned the art of walking silently, as a good woodsman always walks that his feet may not cheat his eyes by warning others of his approach before he is near enough to see them. At the beginning of winter he had built a brush shelter in a certain place in the Green Forest and this he had kept cleared of snow. It was especially for Thunderer the Grouse and Mrs. Grouse and such of their children as might use it. After every fall of snow he had taken grain there as he was doing now.

He wasn't quite there when he saw Reddy Fox a little ahead of him. He stopped instantly to watch. Reddy hadn't heard him, nor did he see him. He was too intent on his own affairs. He was in an open space among the trees. His back was to Farmer Brown's boy. His head was turned a little to one side and his pointed black ears were cocked.

"He hears something or is listening for something," thought Farmer Brown's boy.

Reddy went forward a few steps, then stopped. He kept his eyes fixed on a certain spot close to his feet. Suddenly he began to scratch furiously at that icy crust. He was trying to dig through it. It was in vain. That crust was too hard, too thick, for him to do more than slightly scratch its glistening surface.

"It must be he thinks there is a Mouse down there under the crust," thought Farmer Brown's boy.

Reddy stopped trying to dig and sat down. For some time he didn't move. Neither did Farmer Brown's boy. It was clear from the set of his ears that Reddy was listening for something. Finally he turned his head quickly and got to his feet. For a minute or two he stood without moving, his ears set forward. Then slowly he crept a short distance, then once more stopped to listen. Suddenly he sprang, bringing both fore paws down hard close together as he would if pouncing on a Mouse on or in the snow. Both paws slipped on that smooth icy crust so that Reddy slid forward awkwardly. He looked about hastily as if to see if any one was watching him and saw Farmer Brown's boy.

"He is listening. I wonder if he hears what I heard," thought Reddy. He was right. Farmer Brown's boy was listening.

30 YANKS FIND LIFE PLEASANT IN LUXEMBOURG

Tiny State In Much Better Condition Than Neighbors.

LUXEMBOURG— (INS)—There are only about thirty Yanks left in Luxembourg today, and none of them is particularly anxious to go home. "Why go home?" They ask. Isn't Luxembourg better off than America?

The tiny state certainly is in better condition than any of its neighbors. With starving, chaotic Germany to its east and hungry, bewildered France to its west, Luxembourg is like a nickel-sized isle of tranquility almost engulfed in a sea of misery.

There is not much you can't buy in Luxembourg. You can get gasoline and cigars and ice-cream. Silk dresses, white bread and good leather shoes—all these things almost for the asking.

In the gas station, the manager says: "don't give me the ration coupons, I don't know what to do with them."

In Restaurant.

In a restaurant, the waiter—sensing you're a visitor—tells you: "don't worry about the rations markings in the menu. They don't mean anything."

But you mustn't get the idea things are cheap. Those thirty odd GIs left in Luxembourg—members of an MP detachment—are having a pretty good life, they freely admit. But they are spending more real American dollars on that good life than their comrades in France or Germany.

For in those countries, there is a rip-roaring black market in greenbacks, which levels off the cost of living for those who possess U. S. cash.

50c Gallon.

Gasoline costs fifty cents a gallon. A fair suit is $80-120. A reasonable dinner is $4-10. and American cigarets are close to a dollar a package.

The war brushed lightly across the thousand-square-mile state. Structural damage was negligible. The standard and the mode of living changed but little.

You notice a host of little things in Luxembourg which remind you of home. Life goes on in a placid manner.

In Germany, the tone of life is desperate and grim; in France, nerves are taut and tempers short.

Luxembourg girls don't stare at or openly chase Luxembourg men. Social manners in this respect seem on about the same level as at home. In neighboring France and Germany, both countries bled white of men in war, it's an eternal catch-as-catch-can and the remaining men are the target.

Best Off.

Luxembourgers are sensitive to the fact that economically and socially they are about the best off community in Europe. If you mention this to them, they recall quickly: "we suffered enough when the Nazis were here . . . don't begrudge us our good fortune now . . ."

And, in all fairness, life is not completely the same as before the war. Taxes have nearly doubled.

The general cost of living has more than quadrupled, while incomes have less than tripled.

But the quarter million population is mostly rooted deeply to the earth, nearly self-sufficing from the produce of its own rich soil. The few iron and steel industries are working full tilt. There is no shortage in Europe today of customers for the tools they produce.

It is a tonic to visit Luxembourg. The full shop-windows, the smiling faces, the pleasant rows of unbombed houses stand out in happy contrast to the surrounding misery and tragedy.

Predict More Jobs In 4 Months

EMPLOYERS SEE GROWING NEED FOR WORKERS

Supply of Steel Expected to Control Employment Trend In Mansfield Area.

Although unfilled job openings in the Mansfield area are at the lowest point in many months, reports from 30 employers indicate an anticipated steady rise in employment for the next four months, C. W. Handley, manager of the Mansfield office of the Ohio State Employment service, reported today.

The gradual increase in employment in Mansfield is expected to place 1,000 more persons in jobs, Handley said.

Of this number, 200 are expected to be women.

The rise in employment may be somewhat erratic as influenced by the shortage and uncertain supply of processed materials, principally steel, Handley explained.

* * *

Job Openings Drop.

Unfilled job openings decreased by 640 during the last month, from 960 to 320, Handley said.

Reception contracts in the office during last month also fell off sharply, with 700 fewer contracts made in November than October, records in the office revealed.

Due to the decline in the number of job openings, the number of active applications for work on file in the office was reduced by only 30 during the month, the monthly labor-market report prepared by Handley showed. Total figures showed a drop from 560 applications to 530.

ment, Shaffer was responsible for the drafting of the post-war highway program which, as director, he will now carry into effect.

He will construct new highways in cooperation with the Federal Public Roads administration which in 1944 set aside $60,000,000 for three years for the state to be matched with state funds.

"His familiarity with the post-war program, as well as with general administration of the department, gives him an exceptional background," Herbert said in announcing the appointment.

Shaffer is a graduate of Mansfield high school, and received his civil engineering degree from Ohio university at Athens.

Busy Days Are Rule at Red Cross Chapter House

13 VOLUNTEERS DAILY ANSWER 101 QUESTIONS

Motor Corps Rushed to Aid In Rescue Work At Train Wreck.

By NITA BRANSON

It was a typically busy day at the Red Cross chapter house, 309 Park avenue west.

Mrs. Charles Brown jr., volunteer worker, had been on the job since 9 a. m. answering telephones, directing "visitor traffic" and answering all the hundred and one questions that come up in the course of a busy Red Cross day.

Mrs. Brown is one of 13 volunteer women who take their turns at the information desk in the front hall five days a week.

Across the hall from the front office, production workers were doing their daily stint at making warm clothes for overseas shipment. These volunteer production workers are on the job from 10 a. m. until almost 4 p. m.

Women who sew for the Red Cross make it a "business." Some of them have planned their weekly schedules for years to include a day each week at the local chapter rooms.

* * *

RIGHT NOW, THEY ARE making warm, plaid flannel shirts for men and boys, and dresses for women and children, all to be shipped overseas. While groups meet in the Red Cross home, other groups duplicate their sewing activities in churches and clubs throughout the city, adding to the supplies of warm clothing for foreign relief. Other workers, knitting in their own homes, are making children's sweaters, these also to be sent overseas.

In the rear room to the right of the hallway, hundreds of educational boxes are piled up waiting to be shipped. Last week's railroad embargo, due to the coal strike, had held up shipping of these boxes to children overseas.

Filling of these packages, by the Junior Red Cross members, is a fall and spring task of Mansfield and Richland county school children. Six hundred will be shipped now and 600 in the spring.

* * *

Upstairs, the executive and administrative offices are located, Mrs. Bess Augsburger, executive secretary, holding forth in the room to the west front. On the east side of the second floor, Miss Esther Barnett manages the home service department. Here veterans bring their troubles, talking over with Miss Barnett such things as claim and insurance papers and all problems which involve war veterans.

Miss Barnett is assisted four days each week by Miss Eleanor Wentz.

* * *

MRS. BEATRICE BALYEAT, office manager and assistant to Mrs. Augsburger, does her daily stint in the office located in the middle west of the second floor. Mrs. Balyeat, being manager of all such mundane things as letters and files and reports, has at her fingers' tips all the statistical information of the entire chapter.

At the rear of this floor, Frederick Bardsley, water safety and first aid director, runs his part of the broad service program.

* * *

AT PRESENT, approximately 500 Mansfield school children are taking first aid work. Another 80 have joined the swimming classes at the Senior high school under the combined supervision of the Red Cross and the Girl Scouts. The Red Cross provides instructors and life guards and most of the swimming class personnel.

As you leave the chapter house, you may perhaps run across Mrs. Lois Anson, head of the motor corps, checking in for another "job" or reporting one already well done. The motor corps' routine work includes such things as transporting educational boxes for the juniors, delivering production materials and garments, taking children to and from the doctor for eye examinations, transporting members of the blind to the Salvation Army for their monthly meetings.

* * *

THIS PAST WEEK, IN THE early morning hours of Friday, motor corps members were busy on a job that, fortunately, comes only once in a great while. That was the morning of the wreck on the Pennsylvania railroad near Coulter and it was the business of this group to see that workers and coffee for the canteen were delivered as quickly as possible to the injured and rescue workers.

If you stayed around long enough you might have a chance to talk with W. J. Robbins, head of the first aid department and Sam Fox, who directs the water safety program. Mrs. Raymond Clark, who heads home service volunteer work, would probably drop in for a conference with Miss Barnett or Milo Hieber, head of the finance committee, might stop by for a conference on next year's budget with Mrs. Augsburger.

In any case, you'd decide that come what may, it all added up to an extremely busy day. And staff members will tell you that busy days are the usual thing around the chapter house.

EVERY DAY IS A BUSY DAY —Service departments of the Richland county chapter of the Red Cross make the chapter house at 309 Park avenue west a "beehive" of activity five days of every week. Included in these various departments are the production and Junior Red Cross. At the top, a group of volunteer workers in the production rooms sew on warm clothes for overseas. At the machines are Mrs. Harry Hostetler, Mrs. L. A. Ogborn and Mrs. C. K. Smaltz. Seated at the table are Mrs. Jean Hague, Mrs. J. H. Stotler and Mrs. James F. Dunn. Below, a group of Junior Red Cross members pack educational boxes for children in foreign lands. From left to right they are, Carolyn McCurdy, an unidentified girl, Pat Beech, Roberta Lozier, Despina Nickas and Janet Hagans. (News-Journal staff photos).

Predict More Jobs In 4 Months

EMPLOYERS SEE GROWING NEED FOR WORKERS

Supply of Steel Expected to Control Employment Trend In Mansfield Area.

Although unfilled job openings in the Mansfield area are at the lowest point in many months, reports from 30 employers indicate an anticipated steady rise in employment for the next four months, C. W. Handley, manager of the Mansfield office of the Ohio State Employment service, reported today.

The gradual increase in employment in Mansfield is expected to place 1,000 more persons in jobs, Handley said.

Of this number, 200 are expected to be women.

The rise in employment may be somewhat erratic is influenced by the shortage and uncertain supply of processed materials, principally steel, Handley explained.

* * *

Job Openings Drop.

Unfilled job openings decreased by 640 during the last month, from 960 to 320, Handly said.

Reception contacts in the office during last month also fell off sharply, with 100 fewer contracts made in November than October, records in the office revealed.

Due to the decline in the number of job openings the number of active applications for work on file in the office was reduced by only 30 during the month, the monthly labor-market report prepared by Handley showed. Total figures showed a drop from 560 applications to 530.

Busy Days Are Rule at Red Cross Chapter House

13 VOLUNTEERS DAILY ANSWER 101 QUESTIONS

Motor Corps Rushed to Aid In Rescue Work At Train Wreck.

By NITA BRANSON

It was a typically busy day at the Red Cross chapter house, 309 Park avenue west.

Mrs. Charles Brown jr., volunteer worker, had been on the job since 9 a. m. answering telephones, directing "visitor traffic" and answering all the hundred and one questions that come up in the course of a busy Red Cross day.

80 ENROLLED IN CLASSES FOR VETERANS

School Board Sets $3 Hourly Rate For Instructors.

Eighty men are taking on-the-job training courses at Senior high school under the government-sponsored program for veterans, Supt. of Schools W. L. Miller told the board of education last night.

There are 35 in the carpentry classes Monday and Wednesday nights, 12 in the electrical classes Monday and Wednesday nights, and 33 in the machinist classes Tuesday and Thursday nights.

The board set up a $3 hourly fee for the four instructors, Harry Hostetler, J. J. Thomas, R. O. McFarland, and Dan Haber.

Two clerk resignations were accepted last night and one clerk, a substitute teacher, and two tutors were employed.

Resigning were Mrs. Flora Ray, clerk at Bowman school, and Miss Dorothy Mayberry, clerk at the Hedges building, both to take other jobs. Employed to replace Miss Mayberry at Hedges was Mrs. Hilda McMullen.

The appointment of Mrs. Jane Pecht who has been substituting for Miss Kathleen Mendenhall at Senior high school since Oct. 17 was approved.

Also approved was the appointment of Mrs. Muriel Harman and Miss Virginia Casperson as tutors for two high school pupils who are at the county tuberculosis sanatorium.

The board authorized the transfer of Eric Kohler from assistant day fireman at the Newman building to assistant night fireman at Senior high school at a pay increase of $100 a year. John Stromberger was named to replace Kohler.

CITY SCHOOLS' ATTENDANCE OFF

Average attendance in Mansfield public schools dropped off a little last month and the Woodland school took attendance honors away from the Western Avenue building by a slight margin.

Figures reported to the board of education last night showed attendance averaged 94.28 per cent in November as compared with 95.92 in October.

The Woodland school topped the list with 96.26 per cent. Western Avenue school was close behind with 96.23 per cent. Newman school was third with 95.88 per cent.

Of the special schools, the sight-saving school had the best attendance mark with an average of 98 per cent.

Of the 6,531 pupils enrolled in all the schools, 3,088 were neither absent nor tardy in November.

Truancy cases in November dropped to 41 from 63 in October, but cases of tardiness increased from 1,163 in October to 1,393 last month.

TRUSTEES SEEK FUND TRANSFER

Washington township trustees today had asked common pleas court for authority to bolster their road and bridge fund by transferring $700 from the township general fund.

The trustees said $311.80 remaining in the road and bridge fund Dec. 2, 1946, was not sufficient to enable them to maintain township roads.

Their petition showed $1,307 in the general fund.

Transfer of the money had been previously approved by the Ohio state board of tax appeals.

Moose Plan Busy Schedule

Initiation of a class of candidates in Wooster last night by the degree team of the Loyal Order of Moose launched a busy week for Mansfield lodge members, according to Lloyd Hughes, head of the order. Paul Grohol heads the team which inducted the new members.

Tonight members will meet for their regular session at the Moose hall. Tomorrow night, officers will go to Marion for a district advisory board meeting and the degree team will go to Tiffin to institute a new lodge and to initiate a class of candidates.

The annual children's party will be held Thursday night when members will entertain children of the Richland County Children's home. There will be Santa Claus, treats and a huge lighted tree. Members of the Moose will provide transportation for the children from the home.

The week will close with the regular Friday and Saturday social get-togethers.

'Don't Do Dishes', Male Jury's Ruling

GALION — The United Commercial Travelers observed ladies' night, Friday, at the American Legion home with 100 guests present. Colored motion pictures of a cross-country tour were presented through the courtesy of the Greyhound company.

A debate on whether a husband should help his wife do the dinner dishes with J. C. Gay for the affirmative and Dr. T. C. Pilliod, negative, was won by the negative. The decision was made by all-male judges.

Arrangements for the party were in charge of Robert Spangler, Paul Nollen, Wilbert King, Herman Eichhorn and W. W. Wheatcraft.

SETTLERS GET BREAK

GRAND COULEE, Wash.—(UP)—The best land of the 1,029,000 acres in the Columbia basin will be divided into 50-acre farms for settlers when the irrigation project is completed, if the recommendations of a group of planning experts are adopted. Less productive land will be divided into 110-acre farms.

RATE INCREASES $2 IN 2 YEARS

Mansfielders are paying more taxes now than they did last year, but the current rate is still well under the 1934 high of $21.20, records in the city and county auditor's offices show.

This year, school and recreation levies helped to boost the rate to $18.20, a $2.80 increase over last year.

However, this year's rate marks only a $2 increase in 10 years. In 1936 the city's rate per $1,000 valuation was $16.20.

The 1934 high is accounted for by the fact that state laws permitted a 15-mill limitation. Since then the limitation has been dropped to 10 mills.

In 1944 the city's rate was $15.60; in 1941 it was $16.

SETTLE CASES OUT OF COURT

The $1,500 money judgment action filed in Richland county common pleas court by the father of a disciplined Shiloh high school student against the teacher was closed today, a journal entry in the clerk of courts office revealed.

George Rinehart sr. dismissed the action against Harlan E. Ridenour, the teacher, following settlement out of court.

Rinehart filed the suit May 8, 1946 asking judgment of $1,500, claiming that his son had been "assaulted, injured and humiliated" by Ridenour. In his answer, Ridenour claimed that he administered punishment to the student only for the purpose of effecttually discharging his duties as a teacher.

Another case asking $25,000 for injuries and damages was settled and dismissed at the defendant's costs. The case was filed by Lillian Mae Light against the Lake Shore Coach company Dec. 10, 1945, following an accident on the Mansfield-Shelby road, Jan. 14, 1945.

It's Ticklish Job, Mooring Vessels to Polar Ice Packs

By LEE VAN ATTA

ABOARD USS MT. OLYMPUS, en route to the South Pole—(INS)—Rear Admiral Richard Cruzen revealed today that the heavy vessels of the Byrd Antarctic expedition will be moored directly to the ice pack itself at the frozen bottom of the world.

Admiral Cruzen, operations commander of the expedition, pointed out that this will pose problems in seamanship perhaps never paralleled in marine history.

The mooring operation, he declared, is only half the story. The mighty ice pack breaks off constantly into huge chunks day and night. It is a tricky business hastily detaching the lines, maneuvering the vessels out of the way of the bergs and then re-mooring.

THEN, HE SAID, THERE IS the constant danger of blizzards, bringing with them careening bergs charging wild through the relatively close waters of Bay of Whales, where the vessels will be stationed.

Cruzen has weathered such blizzard bouts by day and night and his seamanship was proved on the last expedition. The late Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox and President Franklin D. Roosevelt personally cited him for preserving his vessel through one of the wildest nights in Antarctic explorations.

Cruzen explained that if the ice shelf splits—as it did in all previous expeditions—lives and vital supplies may be lost during unloading.

Despite the dangers from the splits, Cruzen accepts them philosophically. He said::

"They scare you at first but we got used to them."

The "best" city—insofar as each of us is concerned—is the one in which we live . . . and patronage of home-town merchants will tend to make it even better.

Suggested as seasonal reading is the late Damon Runyon's Christmas story, "The Three Wise Guys," which ends with the trio learning that they are leaving Bethlehem, (Pa.)

Progress Toward Warless World

THE 1946 SESSION of the United Nations general assembly has ended on a note of hope. There is some reason to believe that the poet Alfred Tennyson's dream of a parliament of the world is at last coming true.

For 54 days the representatives of 54 nations haggled, argued, "walked out," spouted propaganda, and viewed with suspicion. Then, with almost surprising suddenness, they began to make progress toward the mutual aim of world disarmament. The goal is still far away. But a method on how to reach it has been arrived at.

The delegates chose a permanent home for the U.N. in one of Manhattan's skyscraper sites. Siam was admitted at the last minute as a 55th member.

In general, delegates noted an increasing willingness to co-operate between Russia and the western powers. It was perhaps significant that the Russians agreed not to veto decisions of the disarmament enforcement agency once it is set up. Russia compromised on Trieste, on freedom of Danube traffic. And Russia did not get unruly when her joint-proposal with the Ukraine to hold next year's session in Europe was defeated.

Notable, too, was the fact that during the closing sessions of the assembly the government of Iran succeeded in regaining control of Azerbaijan province which had been virtually cut off from the country and kept under Russian domination since the war. Soviet opposition to this move could have easily disrupted the whole U.N. agenda and precipitated a new eastern Mediterranean crisis.

Of course, world peace is not yet achieved. Many arguments and new crises lie ahead. If there were no dangers and no disagreements there would not need to be a United Nations.

If in the coming years the U.N. can make as much progress as its assembly made in these 54 days, then there is indeed hope for the future peace of the world, and historians can say, as they wish, either that the atom bomb brought humanity to its senses or that the Christmas season of 1946 was truly a time of tidings of great joy to all people and peace on earth among men of good will.

Where Honesty Isn't a Policy

CROOKEDNESS and commercialized gambling are so closely associated in the public mind that disclosure of an attempted "fix" in a professional football game causes no more than a ripple of excitement outside the circle of direct interest.

It is taken for granted that professional gamblers, operating in violation of law, will go to any further lengths required to benefit themselves, and the current episode need surprise no one who knows of the methods pursued by big and little gambling operators in attempting to "influence" some sports results or in gaining official tolerance of illegal rackets.

The element of honesty is so totally lacking in this underworld field of activity that the extent of public tolerance and patronage is cause for wonderment.

More Than Sweetness Required

IT APPEARS that chemists can always find a substitute if the real article becomes scarce enough. Now Dutch inventors have hit upon a new substance said to be 4,000 times as sweet as sugar. It promises to be more economical in food and in the manufacture of candy and soft drinks.

Sweet-toothed Americans await with interest what the Hollanders have to offer. The sugar shortage has annoyed some Americans far more than many more serious results of war dislocations.

Sugar itself, however, has certain important values in the human system, and a mere sweet taste is relatively unimportant.

Make It a Safe Christmas

Editor's Note—From an unidentified source comes this revised version of "The Night Before Christmas," with Idah Hermance Wood credited as the writer.

"Twas the night before Christmas, when all through the street,
The traffic was heavy, and hurried the feet.
The autos were driven with the greatest of care,
In hopes that no accidents would occur there,
The children were nestled at home in their beds,
While visions of auto rides danced in their heads;
The radio car, and the cop on the beat
Had just settled down for a bite to eat,
When down the street there arose such a clatter,
They sprang to attention to see what was the matter.
The siren a-screaming, they flew like a flash,
Tore open the throttle, and rolled down the sash,
The lamp on the post and the traffic-light's glow
Gave a luster of midday to objects below;
When what should the cop's wondering eyes behold
But a funny red car, whose vintage was old,
With a little old driver clothed in fur thick,
They knew in a moment it must be St. Nick.
More rapid than eagles this strange car came,
And he whistled and shouted and called it by name;
"Keep sober! Use judgment! Use caution! Be sure!
Be careful! Ears open! Eyes wide! Stay secure!
To the top of the car, to the cap on the hood,
Have a thorough inspection, or else knock on wood.
With a harp; and with wings they will teach you to fly,
With your direction toward the blue of the sky;
But if you don't wish this journey to make—
Don't step on the throttle and think it's the brake;
Don't pass on the curves of the beautiful hills—
For the least you will get is powder or pills;
Don't follow too closely a truck blue or yellow—
Or soon they'll be sighing, 'He was a good fellow';
And if you just must have a race with a train—
I'll give you a toy one to play with again.
If in traffic you like to pull out and pass—
Don't put faith in steel body and shatter-proof glass;
Don't drink when you drive, nor drive when you drink—
Or at least nothing stronger than lemonade pink!"
Santa now turned and pulled out a sack,
Opened the drawstrings and began to unpack,
To the careful drivers he handed a prize,
Patted them fondly and called them so wise;
To the drivers he found most always polite,
Gave a gold medal lined with jewels of white;
To the radio cars and the patrolmen too,
He pinned on a ribbon of the brightest of blue;
To all the workers who for safety gave heed,
He kissed them and thanked them for doing a good deed;
Sent toys for the kiddies who crossed streets with care;
Sent gifts for the aged with more burdens to bear.
Then wagging his finger at the crowd standing 'round,
He laughingly shouted he was North Pole-ward bound;
He sprang to his car, pressed his hand on the horn,
Drove quickly away for soon 'twould be morn;
But they heard him exclaim 'ere he passed from their sight;
"A safe Christmas to all, and to all, good night!"

Nation's Historic Documents To Be Shown To American People

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—It won't be announced for awhile, but Attorney General Tom Clark is hatching a unique plan for selling civil liberties to the American people. He will send a special train through the 48 states carrying some of the priceless treasures of American freedom.

It was Clark, working behind the scenes, who had more than anyone else to do with organizing the president's special Committee on Civil Liberties which will study southern lynchings and race problems. Clark, who comes from Texas, has been prompt to invoke federal law in South Carolina-Louisiana race disputes, but believes that more can be done by education.

Accordingly he has evolved the idea of sending a special train across the United States containing the most sacred documents of American history which guarantee our freedom.

At first Clark proposed equipping two special cars with showcases which would display the Bill of Rights, the Declaration of Independence, the Emancipation Proclamation, the Constitution and so on.

However, he found that the Proclamation of Emancipation by which Lincoln freed the slaves was in the hands of Abraham Rosenbach of Philadelphia, famous collector of old manuscripts. Clark, therefore, called Rosenbach to tell him about his plan and ask for the loan of the proclamation.

Rosenbach said he would be delighted to cooperate, but asked:

"Why are you having only two cars? I've got lots of old Americana. Why not get up an entire train?"

"We haven't got the money," replied the attorney general. "Haven't you heard that we're trying to economize down here?"

Rosenbach then offered to help raise the money and, as a result, it is now planned to equip an entire special train with showcases in which will be displayed the most cherished documents of American history. Soldiers will guard the train, just as guards stand watch continually over these documents in the library of congress.

In addition, as the train arrives at each state border, an extra car will be added displaying the historic documents and civil rights mementoes of the state.

Finally, Clark plans to have large-size duplicates of the freedom documents "blown-up" as permanent exhibits to be left behind in the high schools of each city through which the train passes.

Inside the Miners' Union.

The American public is prone to forget easily. When a crisis is over it goes back to pleasanter things.

But while most people now are busy with turkeys and Christmas trees John L. Lewis—even though his bushy brow ceases to adorn the front pages — continues an ever-present problem with another strike threatened March 31.

This columnist, therefore, believes it important to continue to remind the public of Mr. Lewis's backstage operations. When a man amasses as much power as John L., and uses it as ruthlessly, he merits never-ceasing public scrutiny, especially in view of what some of his own men have to say about him.

This column has long championed the general cause of the miners, but not all the miners agree with their union boss—though few have the nerve to speak out about him.

However, here is a letter from one union organizer who works directly under John's brother, Denny Lewis, and whose name must be withheld—for obvious reasons. His letter tells its own story:

"We field representatives who do the very necessary spade-work for the organization, are required to do everything from painting the homes of the regional union directors to murder. For this we get the magnanimous salary of $200 per month, plus the kicking around attested in the enclosed documents.

"My home is in Indiana. I was transferred to Pennsylvania mainly because I disapproved of beating up or murdering a Negro organizer of the rival CIO.

Ruthless Unionism.

"Take a look at the upper right-hand corner of the enclosed letter. You will find George F. Rice blacked out and his successor superimposed. Rice was neatly framed in the standard way because he couldn't see his way clear to holding up an employer for the last outside cent during contract negotiations with Gunnison Homes of New Albany, Ind. He was ruthlessly fired.

"The list of Lewis ex-employes is large and growing daily. You can readily see why. The pay doesn't attract the higher type of men, and when it does, the treatment soon sickens them. When I say sicken, I mean that you fight like hell for leave-of-absence clauses or seniority in a contract, only to find that the union you represent wouldn't think of allowing these benefits to its own employes.

"We little fellows are just waking up to the fact that the good old days of union for union's sake are about gone; replaced by the $1,000,000 treasury and a dictatorial attitude that makes the meanest employer of the dark ages of labor look like a piker.

"I came into the work of union organizing with the conviction that there was no more noble occupation than trying to better the condition of my fellow-men. That is still my honest conviction. What I didn't know, however, is that the top brass have refused to recognize the signs of the times and sat right down astride their multimillion dollar treasuries and in effect said: 'From now on all you can do is pour it in here while we dictate your policies, your privilege of earning a living, and generally become more paternalistic than any employer ever dreamed of being in his palmiest days.'

"So, Drew, if you can use this without getting a leaden slug in the short ribs, go to it."

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Friday, Dec. 17, 1926.

Christmas party was given in Ohio Brass company's assembly room for children of employes,—with entertainment features and Santa Claus. O-B band provided music.

Survey was started on project to eliminate West Fourth street grade crossing of B. & O. railroad.

Daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wheaton, 60 Heineman boulevard; daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Burger, 8 Superior street.

Program and refreshments provided entertainment for pupils of English classes at Friendly House.

Daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hosler, 18 Highland avenue.

Earl L. Swigart, 40, died at his home on Washington avenue.

Miss Naomi Todd, teacher of physical education in Kalamazoo, Mich., schools, was home for the holidays.

Dave Boone Says:

U. N. ARRIVED with a set of goal posts, slightly damaged, and it goes home with a skyscraper project, some sourpusses may say. But the general assembly's unanimous vote on a disarmament resolution is something to cheer us all.

* * *

If the resolution had been passed by any creatures less befuddled, cantankerous and stupid than human beings it would be beyond question the greatest act in history.

* * *

As one delegate said, there will be setbacks and heartbreaks in getting man to cancel his wild-animal act and begin settling his troubles as if he had brains, but the cause must be pursued "with a holy obstinacy."

* * *

Everything considered, a great thought for the Yuletide season is that half a hundred nations did get together under one tent, managed to grow a little friendlier, and at the close were not only on speaking terms but were speaking in the Christmas mood of "Glory to God and on earth peace to men of good will."

Farmer's Diary: "Random Pickups."

NATIONAL Federation of American Shipping has completed a documentary motion picture, for free distribution to schools, colleges, civic organizations and fraternal groups, entitled, "America Sails the Seas." Time 32 minutes. Distribution date, Jan. 15, 1947.

The primary purpose of "America Sails the Seas" is to show the importance of shipping to every segment of American agriculture and industry. The picture tells the necessity for adequate American merchant marine; how it operates; where it goes; what it carries; why it is "vital for national defense and indispensable to peacetime tomorrow."

* * *

Friends of The Land, a national organization for conservation of soil, rain and man—nonpartisan, nonprofit group of civic minded adults — welcomes new members. Memberships begin at $5—and include a subscription to "The Land," a quarterly magazine edited by Russell Lord . . . which in my opinion is worth the whole price.

National headquarters is at 1368 North High street, Columbus, Ohio.

Our local Mansfield post of The Volunteers of America now launches its drive for funds. This is presented as "the only welfare organization in Mansfield that is self supporting and growing steadily under the guidance of the Lord."

During the past six years all indebtedness has been cleared, the building purchased and paid for, and an additional space put into operation. Volunteers of America will pick up paper, rags, magazines, clothing, and furniture—Call 4578-6.

Ohio Forestry association is on the offensive. Future welfare of our state depends partially upon the realization of its objectives. New members are invited. . . . Oliver D. Diller, secretary, Wooster, Ohio.

Says the latest news bulletin of the Forestry association. . . . "A small group of men in Trumbull county conceived the idea of an Arboretum—a place where all the types of trees and shrubs native to the area could be planted and come to represent a cross section of the once proud forests that covered the state.

The project is financed by sale of shares and by gifts and bequests. The Trumbull Arboretum and Conservation association has bought and paid for an 120-acre tract, and is planting and improving it, as an educational and civic project, owned, operated and controlled by local citizens, without state aid.

This is going on at Bazetta, near Warren, Ohio.

Childhood Resolution Vigorously Renewed.

WASHINGTON — It never was this correspondent's intention to delve into the dramatic field, and all I can say in excuse is that this incident reminded me so much of that little tomboy back in the third grade—and revitalized my resolution never to give a woman a decent break.

After being bedeviled interminibly, I loaned that little ingrate my wagon. No sooner had she stacked it up against the school building, skinning her knee in the process, than she ran to the teacher, crying accusations my way.

So help me, all I was doing was standing and watching at the time—but I got punished for the incident.

It was then that I made the resolution, and although it was relaxed from time to time through the years, now it is back in full force.

It's because of this new play, entitled "Love Goes to Press," which made its first statewide showing here in Washington last week after making quite a hit in London. Using the war as a handy background, it theoretically presents a picture of love, life and newsbeats among the correspondents along the battle line.

It is written by a couple of ex-war correspondents, Martha Gellhorn, Ernest Hemingway graduate (class of '45), and Virginia Cowles, she who showed up to cover the Spanish war wearing a schaiparelli hat, and by a curious coincidence its two heroines are beautiful, sincere, honest, lovable, trustworthy, intriguing and square shooting female war reporters.

Due to their unmistakable integrity, their efficient and recognized ability, their willingness to adapt themselves to all wartime difficulties and their great personal charm, these two through-shot-and-shell heroines have no trouble whatever beating their male contemporaries on practically every story of importance and danger.

Really it isn't difficult at all for them to do so, for the men in the play are little more than a bunch of lazy, frightened, no-good, philandering, double-crossing, two-timing heels, anyway.

All of which is making my life mighty miserable nowadays, because that's just what my wife suspected all the time I was gone, anyway, and now the play by these two snitching, tattle-tales has provided her plenty of proof!

"Ha!" she says, in that tone which brooks no argument. "So that's the kind of life you war correspondents lived, is it? Lying around the press camp all day, and then making passes at the poor little working girls just so you could steal the stories they'd been out getting. Ha!"

In vain do I protest that out of the hundreds and hundreds of male war correspondents, the law of averages alone would indicate that one or two of them were fairly decent, hard-working citizens who were not living the life of Riley at the expense of the United States army.

Futilely do I point out that it would have been practically impossible for me to have made passes at most female war correspondents, what with being unable to penetrate the ranks of majors, colonels and brigadier generals who so often surrounded them.

It's all to no avail. Martha and Virginia say male war correspondents were heels. I was a male war correspondent. Ergo, I am a heel.

And it seems unfair for several hundred ordinary typewriter hacks to have the two-timing hung on them by the romantic double-crossing of one or two male geniuses who generally didn't speak to us lowly slaves anyway.

All I regret is a couple of incidents I now recall.

One was in Rome one night when I shared my last jug of freshly fermented fruit juice with Martha and a bunch of her British buddies.

The other was in southern France one morning when I refused to file an official complaint because Virginia had swiped my jeep — even though the angry motor pool sergeant pleaded with me to do so.

And now they go telling tales again. Hah! As I said at the age of eight, phooie on girls, anyway!

"Free Enterprise" Recognizes Obligation.

WASHINGTON—We are on our own now pretty much.

Which is a way of saying that the junking by President Truman of the bulk of remaining war agencies and throwing them into a final liquidating agency puts it squarely up to free enterprise.

That is, American business and industry must assume responsibility, carry on, and prove it can do the peacetime job it has said it can do.

Whatever else is left of war controls will be removed in the new congress. It also is clear now that there will be a revision of the Wagner Act and other labor laws to meet the demands of business, industry and the public.

Mr. Truman's final gesture of renunciation marks the beginning of a great adventure. The rest of the world is going the other way—toward planned economies.

Likewise it imposes perhaps the greatest responsibility ever faced by business and industrial and labor leaders, as well as by the Democratic party which is charged with responsibility in the executive and judicial branches, and the Republican party which takes over congress in a divided control that could have dangerous potentialities.

There are some elements in business and industry which interpret the recent election as a mandate to go rather far in restrictive labor legislation and in slowing up or halting social welfare measures. They appear to be in the minority, fortunately. Moderation seems the order of the day.

Most interesting in this connection is an analysis of the election made for one of the nation's biggest and most powerful corporations.

Overall, it interprets the election as not a sudden earthquake but the culmination of a long developing trend.

Warning throughout that "reaction" is not in order, the analysis points out that public opinion polls show that about 80 per cent of the people are in favor of unions and collective bargaining; that two-thirds are for raising the minimum wage under the federal wage-hour act to 65 cents an hour. It then explains that 75 per cent of all income recipients in the United States derive the major part of their income from wages and salaries.

"Even the conservatives in congress thinking of 1948 will not fly in the face of these facts," it adds. "Senator Taft's housing and hospitalization bills are evidence of this."

The Republican party, the analysis says, "has less to fear from the power of the Democratic party than it has to fear from its own excessive optimism. Such optimism may result in diverting the Republican party from the need for a positive and courageous program and thus lead to a relapse. This could dissipate the present Republican strength by 1948.

"The election was a vote against the Democrats rather than for the Republicans. But a protest vote, for example, against the failure of the Democrats to deal constructively with the question of labor-union abuses cannot be interpreted as a vote for the traditional anti-labor union policies of 20 years ago."

In another place the analysis says, "there is danger that the conservative elements in the business community and throughout the country may conclude that 'reaction' is now in order. There is nothing to support such a conclusion."

The analysis says that "it is more important than ever that the truly progressive industrial leadership of the country demonstrate its progressiveness. This can be done by developing and supporting sound plans to deal with the obvious difficulties faced by the ordinary worker rather than being 'against the better life.' To illustrate, industry must be for stabilization of employment by sound means rather than against the whole idea involved in the issue of the guaranteed annual wage."

This all seems sound advice, and it should carry weight because it comes from within industry itself.

Henry Wallace Adopts Milder Tone.

WASHINGTON—As an apostle of hands-across-the-sea to our British cousins, Henry A. Wallace appears in what is for him a new role. In his now famous Madison Square Garden speech last fall, he leaned heavily on the traditional wickedness of British imperialism.

After the revolt in the British Labor party, aimed at Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin's policies, Wallace sent a warm telegram of congratulations to the leader of that revolt in parliament, R. H. S. Grossman. Although Wallace was not aware of it, his wife caused a great deal of heart-searching among the group in revolt.

To begin with, they were somewhat taken back at discovering that Wallace regarded himself as their ally.

In his Madison Square Garden speech he had seemed to approve a two-bloc world, one-half dominated by American democracy and the other half by Russian communism.

This was exactly what Crossman opposed in parliament, insisting that Britain could show "the world that it was not faced with the bleak and blank alternatives of American free enterprise or Russian Communism."

By this time, the men and women in revolt had begun a little to regret their action. It had the look of betrayal. In New York, Bevin was laboring in the council of foreign ministers, trying to bring British foreign policy into line with the painful realities of Britain's present position. It is a task that stout, solid Bevin, now homeward bound, has sweated over unendingly ever since the Labor government came to power.

For some time, Crossman's followers debated whether a reply should be sent to Wallace. Any sort of reply, it was argued, might indicate an alliance between the Wallace faction in America and the Crossman group within the British Labor party, when in actuality no such alliance existed. Finally, more than two weeks after receipt of the Wallace message, a friendly but more or less meaningless reply was sent.

As a conscientious editor, Wallace says he is saving this to print in the New Republic. At the same time, he is considering the wisdom of an editorial which would call for a link between the Wallaceites in this country and the Crossmanites in Great Britain.

The differences between the two factions are certainly greater than the similarities. While Crossman and his followers represent a wide range of opinion, they are all labor members of parliament, and while at times they may be critical of the government in power, they would agree almost without exception that they would not exchange that government for any other combination that might come out of British politics today.

When it came to a showdown in the house of commons, there were no votes in favor of Crossman's resolution criticizing Bevin's policy. This came after Crossman had asked to have the motion withdrawn. Slightly more than 100 labor members abstained from voting by staying in their seats or by not attending the session at all.

The contrast with Wallace is sharp. He is not in office and not likely to be in the forseeable future. His standing in the Democratic party is uncertain.

As editor of the New Republic, he has a public form which he is working conscientiously to enlarge. Incidentally, his first editorial is more moderate in tone than the speech that caused the political explosion.

In Britain's powerful Labor party, there are men like Wallace who are inclined to see the world through a rosy haze of idealism. But it includes many others who have learned through responsibility the realities of this present world.

Broadway

Jottings in Pencil—Victor Gilbert, the owner of "Stonehenge" in Ridgefield, Conn., received a frantic cable day before yesterday from James Mason, who had been a guest at Stonehenge before sailing for Bermuda. The witty and estimable Mr. Dan Parker itemed with unusual sombreness yesterday that Joe DiMaggio is "getting fed up with night club press agents who take liberties with his name every time they want to publicize a chorus girl." Joe is indeed a sad case, and much to be pitied, especially by sports writers who picture him standing brawny and outdoorsy as he faces the pitcher's box with his hat in his hand and seldom see him, as Broadway columnists do, taking the night air indoors at smoky and sinister places like the Waldorf-Astoria and Toots Shor's. Joe wouldn't have a worry in the world about seeing his name anywhere but on the rugged, masculine sports pages if it were not for three unfortunate facts: (1) He is famous, and those devils of Broadway columnists think just as much of the reader interest in his name as does Mr. Parker, who leads off with it; (2) He is inclined to hang around chewing the fat with orchestra leaders, press agents, restaurant keepers, wives of cabinet members and other colorful characters until all hours; (3) He likes girls, mostly pretty ones. And some pretty girls are chorus girls. Want to know how to stay out of the gossip columns, Joe? Take a homely girl to Schraffts.

Longer Life Span Bringing Change

DENVER —(UP)— Denver is sending four times as many patients to the state mental hospital at Pueblo, Col., as it did 10 years ago.

But Dr. Franklin Ebaugh, director of the hospital, told Denverites not to worry. They are in the best of mental health. He explained that the average life span in America has grown by years during the last three decades. As a result, more people are growing old, reaching senility when there is mental deterioration as well as physical.

An Important Message About Children

Children must have Vitamin D to help build strong bones and sound teeth. But during dark winter months, youngsters have little opportunity to receive natural Vitamin D from the sun's rays. For this reason, doctors stress the importance of providing an adequate and dependable supply of Vitamin D for growing children.

Isaly's Milk is a dependable, adequate source of Vitamin D. Every quart of Isaly's is fortified by the addition of 400 Vitamin D units—the daily amount nutrition authorities recommend to insure proper bone and tooth development. No regular foods contain sufficient Vitamin D, but when your children drink Isaly's Milk you may be certain they receive the full required daily amount of this essential body-building vitamin.

The Council on Foods and Nutrition of the American Medical Association has approved Isaly's Milk. Every quart bears the Seal of Acceptance awarded by this highly respected medical group. This approval is your guarantee of the Vitamin D content of Isaly's. The consistent high quality of Isaly's further assures you of rich, wholesome milk with a delicious creamy flavor.

Help your youngsters build strong, husky bodies and good, sturdy teeth. Give them Isaly's Milk. Vitamin D is added to ALL Isaly Milk, including homogenized milk, chocolate milk and regular milk. Isaly's Milk is available at your grocery, from your neighborhood Isaly milkman, at Isaly Dairy Stores. Telephone 1217-6 for convenient home delivery service. There's no extra charge.

For your added health protection, every quart of Isaly's Milk has double sanitary sealing. First, a tight but easily removed cap in the top of the bottle which may be used as a cover when the bottle is not in use, and second, a fresh, cellophane hood which fits snugly down over the top of the bottle and keeps the pouring rim healthfully clean. Look for the crisp cellophane hood on Isaly's Milk.

THIRTY SHELBY WORKERS GET WAGE INCREASE

15-Cent Hourly Hike OK'd; Other Actions Tabled.

SHELBY—A wage increase of 15 cents an hour, effective Jan. 1, was approved for employes of the municipal light and water companies last night by the Shelby city council.

The council adjourned its meeting until Dec. 30 when wage increases for all of the other city workers will be acted upon.

An escalator clause was included in the wage ordinance for the utility workers which will give increases or decreases or two and one-half cents an hour every three months for every five points that the Department of Labors' price index rises or lowers the cost of living.

The increase will cost the two utility companies approximately $10,479 annually, Finance Director Chester P. Monn estimated. The 22 employes of the light plant will receive $7,889 annually through the increase, while eight workers at the water company will receive $2,590 annually.

The increase was requested for the utility employes by R. J. Jamieson of Cleveland, international representative for the A F of L union which is bargaining agnt for the workers.

* * *

More Increases Planned.

Mayor Frank Long recommended to council that a flat increase of $10 a month be given to the police and fire department employes. The two departments had asked for a flat $30 a month increase. The matter was held over until the adjourned session Dec. 30.

A request for increases of 15 to 20 cents an hour for street department workers also was tabled until the adjourned session when the council will consider increases for all city employes.

Iberia Woman Celebrates 98th Birthday; Parents Came to Area In Covered Wagon

By M. DOYLE RUSK
N-J State Correspondent

IBERIA — Mrs. Sarah Rhodebeck, whose parents were one of Morrow county's pioneer settlers, today celebrated her 98th birthday.

The aged woman, who still is active and who takes an intense interest in her large family, said quietly when asked to what she attributed her long and happy life:

"God has been good to me and He has blessed me with good health."

Mrs. Rhodebeck was born Dec. 17, 1848, on a farm near here, where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel McClenathan, settled in 1833. At that time Galion had "very few" houses, she said.

Her parents came from Washington county, Pennsylvania, in a horse-drawn covered wagon. They were fascinated by the beautiful rolling countryside of Northern Morrow county.

The McClenathans cleared the land and erected by hand buildings at a time when deer were plentiful and the country was overrun by large flocks of the now-extinct wild black pigeons.

Mrs. Rhodebeck attended Ohio Central college, and was married to her late husband, Chester Rhodebeck, in December, 1870, in Mt. Gilead. The couple set up housewkeeping on a farm near here.

Raised 5 Children.

They raised a family of three boys and two girls. They are Samuel, of Rock Island, Ill.; John, of California; Burr, of Shelby; Mrs. Roy Gallegher, of Mt. Gilead, and Mrs. David Snyder, of Galion.

Mrs. Rhodegeck now has 14 grandchildren, 15 great-grandchildren and one great-great grandson.

She recalls vividly "the good times of old" when she attended spelling bees, literary societies, apple cuttings, wool picking parties and old-fashioned sleighrides.

Her mother made all the clothes for her family on the home loom and spinning wheel, Mrs. Rhodebeck said.

Although she is celebrating her birthday today, Mrs. Rhodebeck's family honored her at a family reunion last Sunday. It was attended by nearly every living descendent of the pioneer family from northern Ohio.

Her only comment on the gathering was:

"We had a turkey dinner and everything that goes with it!"

Puerto Rico was discovered by Columbus on Nov. 19, 1493, during his second voyage to the new world.

Pegler — Fair Enough

NEW YORK — Oswald Garrison Villard, of New York, one of the genuine liberals on the original roster of the non-sectarian anti-Nazi league, strongly disapproves the secret police activities in which the league boastfully revealed itself in the attempt to purge a small organization called the Columbians, in Atlanta. In this coup, the anti-Nazi league planted a New York woman as a secretary in the office of the Columbians and obtained photographs of the Columbians' correspondence by means of a camera disguised as a fountain pen. The expose amounted to nothing more than publicity for the anti-Nazi league and against the Columbians at the time of the denunciation, for no formal charges were made of illegal action by any individual and no person was arrested.

In the reaction, however, the anti-Nazi league stood self-disclosed as a secret, snooping organization and dispatches from Atlanta said that when the Columbians had caught their breath they swore out warrants against James H. Sheldon, the directing chairman of the league, and two secret agents, including the woman secretary, charging them with making investigations illegally.

Mr. Villard does not recall precisely why he quit the league but he said he "supposed" he did so because of general dissatisfaction with "the way it was going." He withdrew several years ago.

* * *

"WE DIDN'T DO anything of that kind," Mr. Villard said. "It was purely an anti-Hitler movement. I was very much astounded by what I have read of sending people south and acting as detectives and trapping people. All I can say is that no action of that kind was taken when I was in it. Actions of that kind never were considered. I think the whole thing must have changed very much

"If it were the same organization, I should say it was time for it to pass out of existence. It never was in its functions to undertake to purge anything in the United States."

The Columbians are alleged to be anti-Semitic and anti-Negro and there seems to be no reason to doubt that. There have been inexact references to sticks of dynamite but the value of the case, if any, against the Columbians, will not be established until the evidence is presented. Thus far, the "case" has consisted of publicity which, on second thought, and on research into the background of the anti-Nazi league, leaves the league in an exposed position.

As these dispatches have related, the treasurer of this organization, which presumes to spy on Americans, violating their confidence and their privacy and exposing their private records to public view, is Isidore Lipschutz, a Belgian refugee who described himself as an importer of diamonds and whose application for American citizenship has been held up by the government. A writer in a publication strongly sympathetic with the league wrote in June, 1943, that Lipschutz was doing a gigantic job for the league and had "turned his vast business organization into what is virtually an adjunct of the league." His "vast business organization" is not further described.

Uneasy as they may be over the activities of the Columbians, the citizens of Georgia may be no more complacent over the invasion of their privacy and their rights by the non-sectarian anti-Nazi league.

Lippmann — Today and Tomorrow

OWING TO the setback he suffered, Mr. John L. Lewis is not to be the leader of the labor unions in the critical argument over wages this winter. He gambled for the leadership. Had he defeated the government, or arranged for his own martyrdom, he would have dominated the actions of Mr. Murray and Mr. Green in the so-called second round.

He would have set the pace and style, the strategy and tactics of the campaign. The argument would have become at once, as it was when he instigated a coal strike at the onset of winter, a naked and brutal test of power.

The difference is important between Mr. Murray's leadership and Mr. Lewis'. Mr. Murray is, to be sure, making very large wage demands; what happened to Mr. Lewis has not caused Mr. Murray to abandon or even reduce his demands. But that was not to be expected; the rise in the cost of living has become a grievance, and the high level of employment gives the organized workers bargaining power.

* * *

THE DIFFERENCE is in the methods. Mr. Lewis precipitated an intolerable crisis before he even explained his grievances and formulated his demands. There was never a chance with Lewis to find out what he actually wanted, much less to discuss it calmly with him. His method was to seize the government and the country by the throat, and then as they gasped for breath to tell them what he wanted.

This was sheer coercion and nothing else, and had it worked, it would have set the pattern for the other labor leaders. Had they tried to be reasonable, decent and civilized, and to consider the general public interest, they would have been attacked as appeasers by Mr. Lewis and the tougher unionists.

Mr. Murray, has, on the other hand, begun by presenting an argument that can be examined and debated. The threat of great strikes is there in the background, to be sure, but, at least, there is to be a serious attempt to argue and persuade. Mr. Murray's case, as presented in the Nathan report, is, of course, ex parte. It is, quite clearly I think, a brief worked up to support a client. That is to say the Nathan report did not lead to the CIO demands; the report was made to justify the demands.

* * *

AT THE BEGINNING of the report they said that "it is obviously futile, at the present time, to anticipate correction of these dangerous trends through reductions in prices and profits. The regulatory mechanisms by means of which reductions in prices and profits might have been achieved, through government action, have been shattered irretrievably. However, businessmen show no signs of exercising such self-restraint in their natural search for profits as would bring about a decline in prices except in the fact of a sharp reduction in demand."

Now, if prices cannot be reduced by government action or voluntarily by businessmen, then how are they to be held from increasing? The authors of this report saw this question, but avoided it.

What they would answer is, I imagine, that either prices can't be raised much more because demand at current prices may be nearing its limit, or that uncontrolled prices will rise, but that at least the CIO workers will have more money.

They do not make their claim for wages out of profits a moral issue. They know better. They have studied too much modern economic theory. Their argument is that while these profits OUGHT to be reduced by lowering prices, prices may not be lowered, that while the remaining profits OUGHT to be spent or re-invested, they will not all be spent and re-invested.

Therefore, there will be an economic imbalance, which higher wages would temporarily—though not permanently—redress somewhat for some part of the people.

SKIDS VEHICLE, FACES UNSAFE DRIVING CHARGE

Youth Breaks Off Telephone Pole, Strikes Tree With Auto.

Benny Jefferson, 21, of 261 North Franklin avenue, today faced charges of unsafe operation of a motor vehicle after his 1941 coach skidded a total of 117 feet yesterday, breaking off a telephone pole and striking a tree.

Police said the accident occurred on Bowman street near Longview avenue when Jefferson was crowded off the road by an approaching truck.

The car skidded 66 feet, striking the pole, then skidded 30 more feet, hitting a tree, and coming to rest after sliding 21 additional feet. Jefferson was uninjured and the automobile wasn't damaged badly. He was summoned to appear in traffic court Wednesday afternoon.

A three-car accident at Fourth and Main streets yesterday brought a charge of failing to stop within an assured clear distance against Richard J. Roller, 19, Mansfield, R. D. 2, a taxicab driver.

Police said Roller's vehicle rammed into the rear of a car driven by Adam Takos, jr., 124 Hedges street, which in turn struck the rear of an automobile driven by Clyde S. Borden, 54 East Fourth street. Roller was summoned to appear in traffic court Wednesday.

TESTIFIES HE GAVE BILBO LAKE, 'DREAM HOUSE'—A Mississippi war contractor, Mike T. Morrissey, above, is shown as he testified before a war investigating committee in Washington that he gave Senator Theodore Bilbo (D., Miss) an automobile and an artificial lake costing $9,172 with an island for a "dream house." Morrissey, who sought Bilbo's aid in getting war contracts, said that the cost of the lake was originally charged to the government but later this was "corrected." The photos of the "dream house" and the lake, also shown, were exhibited as evidence.—(International)

FOOD PRICES REPORT HAS NOTE OF CHEER

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Here's a cheering note for housewives:

The agriculture depariment expects food prices, now a record high levels, to drop somewhat within the next three to six months. The extent of the decline was not specified, but the department said it probably would not be as great as after World War I.

A less optimistic note was sounded for meat prices. For the remainder of the winter, these are expected to decline but little from present high levels. And in the spring, pork and lamb prices may even increase, but beef costs, particularly for the better grades, may go down.

WOMAN HURT AS AUTO SKIDS

Mrs. Lois Anson, 308 Park avenue west, head of the motor corps for the Richland county chapter of the Red Cross, is in General hospital today suffering from bruises and shock, following an accident at noon yesterday three miles south of Mt. Gilead on U. S. Route 42.

Mrs. Anson was injured when her car skidded on the slippery road and turned on its side. She was returning from Columbus, where she had taken a child to his parents.

She was helped out of the car and brought to General hospital by a traveler from Columbus.

Meanwhile, hospital attaches reported that the condition of Maynard C. Marsh, Mansfield, R. D. 3, injured in an auto accident at Lexington early Sunday, remains critical. Marsh suffered a fractured skull when his car crashed through a guard rail and into the residence of Harvey Derrenberger at Lexington.

FIRE DAMAGES MOTOR TRUCK

State highway patrol reported that the truck caught fire as it was going up Ashland road hill at 5:45 a. m. They said the driver, Cecil Hoagland, of Cincinnati, was not injured.

Firemen said cause of the blaze was unknown. Two rear tires of the tractor were exploded by heat. The truck's cargo was not damaged, they said.

Around 12:45 a. m. today firemen were called to the Central Fruit and Grocery company, West Sixth street where burning apples ignited banana packing paper and crates. Firemen said a basket of apples apparently fell against a gas heater.

150 Senior High Pupils Help Santa Claus During Big Rush

Nearly 150 Senior high school pupils have become Santa Claus' helpers this final week before Christmas.

Many of the students are in the distributive education class in which they learn salesmanship first hand while attending school.

John C. Stout, distributive education teacher, said 120 of the pupils are working in stores and other business places while 20 others are helping with the big mail rush at the post office.

The pupils are earning from 60 cents to $1 an hour at their holiday season jobs while they help ease the labor shortage.

Stout reported that 18 of the education class are working full time this week. The remaining two are continuing to work at their regular hours from 1 p. m. on.

In addition to that class, 45 other students were given a six-hour course in pre-employment training in preparation for Christmas selling. All 45 members of this class are working full time this week, Stout said.

Other students make up the total which Stout expects will reach 150 employed students by the first of next week.

"Following the end of the war we had epected that the demand for student employes during the Christmas shopping season would decline, but it is heavier than ever," the coordinator said.

A report, prepared by Stout on the distributive education class, shows that the 20 students in the class worked a total of 2,100 hours and earned $1,175.46 during November, at an average wage of 56 cents per hour.

Earnings per student for the month ranged from $97.09 to $14.56.

The 20 students in the class worked in 19 stores during the month on an average of 26 hours per week.

MYSTERY DEATH BAFFLES POLICE

NEWARK —(INS)— The husband of a prominent 35-year-old Newark matron, whose severed body was found on railroad tracks under mysterious circumstances, was questioned by Newark police today.

The victim was Mrs. Frank Rodamer, the mother of two sons. Her body was found on the tracks a hundred feet from her badly damaged automobile.

The death was discovered several hours after she had taken her husband to the railroad station to catch a train for Chicago. Rodamer returned to Newark from Chicago last night and was to be questioned by Police Chief Gail Christman.

Christman revealed that another man had been questioned about the death but that no lead had developed.

The husband, meanwhile, revealed a pathetic note left by their two sons, Ronald and Robert, aged 7 and 10. When their mother was missing Tuesday morning, they went to school leaving a note behind which read:

"Mother: We packed our lunch and went to school. Don't worry about us."

Licking County Coroner G. W. Sapp said death apparently was caused when Mrs. Rodamer was struck by the train. However, he withheld a formal verdict pending completion of the investigation.

TEEN-AGERS' CRIME RING HITS TROUBLE

ONLY $37,842 LEFT IN FUND FOR RESERVOIR

Officials Estimate Another $200,000 Will Be Needed For Project.

Mansfield was nearing the bottom of its Clear Fork fund barrel today and will need still more cash.

City Auditor Paul L. Kelley reported that there is an unappropriated balance of $37,842 in the reservoir fund. It originally totaled $800,100.

City officials have estimated that another $200,000 will be needed to complete the reservoir project. This would push it over the $1,000,000 mark.

Kelley said that city council could pare sufficient money from an already appropriated dam building fund to provide for clearing of the reservoir area.

* * *

Accept Bids Tonight.

Bids for the clearing job range from $73,000 to $89,000. Meeting in special session tonight, council is expected to provide funds for the acceptance of one of four bids.

Kelley said however, that once the clearing contract is awarded, the reservoir fund will be about dry. More money would have to be procured for the project's purification plant and pipe lines.

City officials are eyeing a $275,000 water works fund as a source of funds to complete the reservoir program, designed to triple the city's water supply.

The plant and lines would be the fourth and final phase of the water project. The first phase, purchase of reservoir land, is about completed and the dam is underway, to mark the second phase.

* * *

Third Phase.

If council appropriates funds for the clearing work tonight, it will thus open the project's third phase.

In a special money status report Kelley listed the following money appropriated from the reservoir fund:

Dam, $466,954; land purchase, $200,000; relocation of Ohio Power company line, $44,954; engineering, $35,000, and relocation of Sohio Pipe Line company line, $13,000.

Balance of the appropriations were accounted for by miscellaneous surveying and road relocation work and by trustee and recording fees.

Some $42,400 could be trimmed from the dam building appropriation, however. Council appropriated $466,954 to cover all bids for the dam contract and accepted a bid of $424,477.

This $42,000, plus the reservoir fund's balance of some $37,800, would cover the lowest bid for the clearing contract.

THEY'LL GO HOME FOR HOLIDAYS

Fifteen soldiers, injured in the Pennsylvania wreck near Lucas last Friday, will be released from Fort Hayes barracks hospital in time to get to their homes for Christmas, officers at the post said today.

The soldiers had been taken to Columbus following the accident for treatment.

Meanwhile, four service men, still confined at General hospital, were said to be in "just fair" condition by hospital authorities today.

The four include: Donald Adams of Denver, Ill.; Rex Curry of Assumpton, Ill.; Ivan Umphress of Wenona, Ill.; and Siegfried Eberhardt of Madison, Wis. All were critically burned from the steam which spread through the coaches following the crash.

STUDENT INDICTED ON MURDER CHARGE

ATHENS—(INS)—Jewell Peters, 24-year-old veteran-honor student at Ohio university who allegedly admitted the smothering of his wife, will be arraigned tomorrow under a second-degree murder indictment before Athens county Common Pleas Judge O. F. Rowland.

The county grand jury returned the indictment late yesterday charging the straight "A" student with the slaying of his wife, Leah Mae.

County Prosecutor Gordon Gray, who presented the state's evidence to the grand jury, announced last week that Peters had made an oral admission that he had smothered his attractive wife with bedclothing in their trailer-home near the university campus Dec. 2. However, Gray has declined to reveal any motive for the crime.

Turks Put Ban on Communist Papers

ISTANBUL—(AP)—The Turkish army padlocked eight publications in Istanbul today, prohibited the printing and distribution of organs of a "Communistic" nature and outlawed branches of two new political parties it described as "directed in a camouflaged manner by Communists and people having extremist Communist tendencies."

One usually reliable source described the actions as a "small purge" and said they might be considered a warning that the Turkish government was ready to resist any "subversive movements."

Surprisingly Quick Relief. No Cooking. Saves Money.

Here's a medicine for coughs due to colds, that you mix in your own kitchen. It's so easy to prepare that a child could do it, but once tried, you'll never again be without it.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed—no trouble at all. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, put it into a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. This gives you a full pint—a family supply—of very wonderful cough syrup. It's thrifty too—about four times as much for your money. Children take it willingly, because it tastes fine.

This home mixture takes right hold of a cough in a way that's surprising. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Eases the soreness, and lets you rest at night.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a most reliable agent for soothing throat and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way. —Adv.

Fair Enough

NEW YORK — Oswald Garrison Villard, of New York, one of the genuine liberals on the original roster of the non-sectarian anti-Nazi league, strongly disapproves the secret police activities in which the league boastfully revealed itself in the attempt to purge a small organization called the Columbians, in Atlanta. In this coup, the anti-Nazi league planted a New York woman as a secretary in the office of the Columbians and obtained photographs of the Columbians' correspondence by means of a camera disguised as a fountain pen. The expose amounted to nothing more than publicity for the anti-Nazi league and against the Columbians at the time of the denunciation, for no formal charges were made of illegal action by any individual and no person was arrested.

In the reaction, however, the anti-Nazi league stood self-disclosed as a secret, snooping organization and dispatches from Atlanta said that when the Columbians had caught their breath they swore out warrants against James H. Sheldon, the directing chairman of the league, and two secret agents, including the woman secretary, charging them with making investigations illegally.

Mr. Villard does not recall precisely why he quit the league but he said he "supposed" he did so because of general dissatisfaction with "the way it was going." He withdrew several years ago.

* * *

"WE DIDN'T DO anything of that kind," Mr. Villard said. "It was purely an anti-Hitler movement. I was very much astounded by what I have read of sending people south and acting as detectives and trapping people. All I can say is that no action of that kind was taken when I was in it. Actions of that kind never were considered. I think the whole thing must have changed very much.

"If it were the same organization, I should say it was time for it to pass out of existence. It never was in its functions to undertake to purge anything in the United States."

The Columbians are alleged to be anti-Semitic and anti-Negro and there seems to be no reason to doubt that. There have been inexact references to sticks of dynamite but the value of the case, if any, against the Columbians, will not be established until the evidence is presented. Thus far, the "case" has consisted of publicity which, on second thought, and on research into the background of the anti-Nazi league, leaves the league in an exposed position.

As these dispatches have related, the treasurer of this organization, which presumes to spy on Americans, violating their confidence and their privacy and exposing their private records to public view, is Isidore Lipschutz, a Belgian refugee who described himself as an importer of diamonds and whose application for American citizenship has been held up by the government. A writer in a publication strongly sympathetic with the league wrote in June, 1943, that Lipschutz was doing a gigantic job for the league and had "turned his vast business organization into what is virtually an adjunct of the league." His "vast business organization" is not further described.

Uneasy as they may be over the activities of the Columbians, the citizens of Georgia may be no more complacent over the invasion of their privacy and their rights by the non-sectarian anti-Nazi league.

Today and Tomorrow

OWING TO the setback he suffered, Mr. John L. Lewis is not to be the leader of the labor unions in the critical argument over wages this winter. He gambled for the leadership. Had he defeated the government, or arranged for his own martyrdom, he would have dominated the actions of Mr. Murray and Mr. Green in the so-called second round.

He would have set the pace and style, the strategy and tactics of the campaign. The argument would have become at once, as it was when he instigated a coal strike at the onset of winter, a naked and brutal test of power.

The difference is important between Mr. Murray's leadership and Mr. Lewis'. Mr. Murray is, to be sure, making very large wage demands, what happened to Mr. Lewis' has not caused Mr. Murray to abandon or even reduce his demands. But that was not to be expected; the rise in the cost of living has become a grievance, and the high level of employment gives the organized workers bargaining power.

* * *

THE DIFFERENCE is in the methods. Mr. Lewis precipitated an intolerable crisis before he even explained his grievances and formulated his demands. There was never a chance with Lewis to find out what he actually wanted, much less to discuss it calmly with him. His method was to seize the government and the country by the throat, and then as they gasped for breath to tell them what he wanted.

This was sheer coercion and nothing else, and had it worked, it would have set the pattern for the other labor leaders. Had they tried to be reasonable, decent and civilized, and to consider the general public interest, they would have been attacked as appeasers by Mr. Lewis and the tougher unionists.

Mr. Murray has, on the other hand, begun by presenting an argument that can be examined and debated. The threat of great strikes is there in the background, to be sure but, at least, there is to be a serious attempt to argue and persuade. Mr. Murray's case, as presented in the Nathan report, is, of course, ex parte. It is, quite clearly I think, a brief worked up to support a client. That is to say the Nathan report did not lead to the CIO demands; the report was made to justify the demands.

* * *

AT THE BEGINNING of the report they said that "it is obviously futile, at the present time, to anticipate correction of these dangerous trends through reductions in prices and profits. The regulatory mechanisms by means of which reductions in prices and profits might have been achieved, through government action, have been shattered irretrievably. However, businessmen show no signs of exercising such self-restraint in their natural search for profits as would bring about a decline in prices except in the fact of a sharp reduction in demand."

Now, if prices cannot be reduced by government action or voluntarily by businessmen, then how are they to be held from increasing? The authors of this report saw this question, but avoided it.

What they would answer is, I imagine, that either prices can't be raised much more because demand at current prices may be nearing its limit, or that uncontrolled prices will rise, but that at least the CIO workers will have more money.

They do not make their claim for wages out of profits a moral issue. They know better. They have studied too much modern economic theory. Their argument is that while these profits OUGHT to be reduced by lowering prices, prices may not be lowered, that while the remaining profits OUGHT to be spent or re-invested, they will not all be spent and re-invested.

Therefore, there will be an economic imbalance, which higher wages would temporarily—though not permanently—redress somewhat for some part of the people.

FOOD PRICES REPORT HAS NOTE OF CHEER

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Here's a cheering note for housewives:

The agriculture department expects food prices, now a record high levels, to drop somewhat within the next three to six months. The extent of the decline was not specified, but the department said it probably would not be as great as after World War I.

A less optimistic note was sounded for meat prices. For the remainder of the winter, these are expected to decline but little from present high levels. And in the spring, pork and lamb prices may even increase, but beef costs, particularly for the better grades, may go down.

150 Senior High Pupils Help Santa Claus During Big Rush

Nearly 150 Senior high school pupils have become Santa Claus' helpers this final week before Christmas.

Many of the students are in the distributive education class in which they learn salesmanship first hand while attending school.

John C. Stout, distributive education teacher, said 120 of the pupils are working in stores and other business places while 20 others are helping with the big mail rush at the post office.

The pupils are earning from 60 cents to $1 an hour at their holiday season jobs while they help ease the labor shortage.

Stout reported that 18 of the education class are working full time this week. The remaining two are continuing to work at their regular hours from 1 p. m. on.

In addition to that class, 45 other students were given a six-hour course in pre-employment training in preparation for Christmas selling. All 45 members of this class are working full time this week, Stout said.

Other students make up the total which Stout expects will reach 150 employed students by the first of next week.

"Following the end of the war we had epected that the demand for student employes during the Christmas shopping season would decline, but it is heavier than ever," the coordinator said.

A report, prepared by Stout on the distributive education class, shows that the 20 students in the class worked a total of 2,100 hours and earned $1,175.46 during November, at an average wage of 56 cents per hour.

Earnings per student for the month ranged from $97.09 to $14.56.

The 20 students in the class worked in 19 stores during the month on an average of 26 hours per week.

MYSTERY DEATH BAFFLES POLICE

NEWARK —(INS)— The husband of a prominent 35-year-old Newark matron, whose severed body was found on railroad tracks under mysterious circumstances, was questioned by Newark police today.

The victim was Mrs. Frank Rodamer, the mother of two sons. Her body was found on the tracks a hundred feet from her badly damaged automobile.

The death was discovered several hours after she had taken her husband to the railroad station to catch a train for Chicago. Rodamer returned to Newark from Chicago last night and was to be questioned by Police Chief Gail Christman.

Christman revealed that another man had been questioned about the death but that no lead had developed.

The husband, meanwhile, revealed a pathetic note left by their two sons, Ronald and Robert, aged 7 and 10. When their mother was missing Tuesday morning, they went to school leaving a note behind which read:

"Mother: We packed our lunch and went to school. Don't worry about us."

Licking County Coroner G. W. Sapp said death apparently was caused when Mrs. Rodamer was struck by the train. However, he withheld a formal verdict pending completion of the investigation.

ONLY $37,842 LEFT IN FUND FOR RESERVOIR

Officials Estimate Another $200,000 Will Be Needed For Project.

Mansfield was nearing the bottom of its Clear Fork fund barrel today and will need still more cash.

City Auditor Paul L. Kelley reported that there is an unappropriated balance of $37,842 in the reservoir fund. It originally totaled $800,100.

City officials have estimated that another $200,000 will be needed to complete the reservoir project. This would push it over the $1,000,000 mark.

Kelley said that city council could pare sufficient money from an already appropriated dam building fund to provide for clearing of the reservoir area.

* * *

Accept Bids Tonight.

Bids for the clearing job range from $73,000 to $89,000. Meeting in special session tonight, council is expected to provide funds for the acceptance of one of four bids.

Kelley said however, that once the clearing contract is awarded, the reservoir fund will be about dry. More money would have to be procured for the project's purification plant and pipe lines.

City officials are eyeing a $275,000 water works fund as a source of funds to complete the reservoir program, designed to triple the city's water supply.

The plant and lines would be the fourth and final phase of the water project. The first phase, purchase of reservoir land, is about completed and the dam is underway, to mark the second phase.

* * *

Third Phase.

If council appropriates funds for the clearing work tonight, it will thus open the project's third phase.

In a special money status report Kelley listed the following money appropriated from the reservoir fund:

Dam, $466,954; land purchase, $200,000; relocation of Ohio Power company line, $44,954; engineering, $35,000, and relocation of Sohio Pipe Line company line, $13,000.

Balance of the appropriations were accounted for by miscellaneous surveying and road relocation work and by trustee and recording fees.

Some $42,400 could be trimmed from the dam building appropriation, however. Council appropriated $466,954 to cover all bids for the dam contract and accepted a bid of $424,477.

This $42,000, plus the reservoir fund's balance of some $37,800, would cover the lowest bid for the clearing contract.

However, Gray has declined to reveal any motive for the crime.

Turks Put Ban on Communist Papers

ISTANBUL—(AP)—The Turkish army padlocked eight publications in Istanbul today, prohibited the printing and distribution of organs of a "Communistic" nature and outlawed branches of two new political parties it described as "directed in a camouflaged manner by Communists and people having extremist Communist tendencies."

One usually reliable source described the actions as a "small purge" and said they might be considered a warning that the Turkish government was ready to resist any "subversive movements."
